Studying the Universe.
Einstein in Stone.
Come Back Prosperity.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

TO SEE WITH your own eyes something well done teaches more than many words of talk. Boy Scouts are taught to use hatchets and axes, and yesterday at the big Boy Scout camp of Allaire, New Jersey, well taken care of by Mr. Thomas McCarter, Mr. Warren W. Barbour and other friends, the boys saw wood-chopping as it should be done.

PETER McLAREN, of Melbourne, champion chopper of Australia, took the thick end of a big log, allotting the thin end to a local chopper.

McLaren stood aside until the local man had cut his thin end half way through, and then chopped through the thick butt of the white oak in one minute and seventeen seconds. An ordinary wood chopper would do it in 30 minutes.

McLAREN SHOWED the boys how to throw a heavy ax from a distance of 60 feet, burying it deep in a tree trunk, within a quarter of an inch of a spot indicated. That accomplishment might be made embarrassing for a holdup man.

How to sharpen an ax with a file, dulling the too sharp blade a little afterward, how to cut through a big log, aways leaving an end of the ax blade out of the wood, to prevent the ax sticking in the log, are things that every chopper should know.

McLaren felled an enormous dead chestnut tree, hard, dry wood, in a few moments, telling the boys as he chopped how to make a tree fall where you want it.

After all his chopping, he showed the boys that his ax blade by Plumb, of Philadelphia, manufacturer of standard Boy Scout hatchets, was still sharp enough to shave the hair from his forearm.

IF MIDDLE-AGED men would become interested in good axes and in chopping, as Gladstone was interested, they would live longer, healthier lives. An hour a day with an ax will conquer any overgrown waist line and restore energy to any liver free of cirrhosis. Never mind if your farmer neighbor asks, "Did you cut down that tree, or did the woodchucks gnaw it down?"

TODAY AMERICAN scientists, gathered in Cleveland, will begin discussing the achievements of science, during the past year, read 2,000 scientific papers, and solve, if possible, some of the problems concerning this universe, the life that animates our bodies and that strange thing called energy.

All those scientists should read Sir James Jeans' latest book, "The Mysterious Universe." And so should you, if interested in things outside of our little front yard, called "the earth."

BORROWING FROM Plato's "Republic" the story of the men chained in a cave facing the wall, seeing only shadows of passing people, thrown on the wall by a fire behind them, Jeans reminds us that we know only shadows of the universe.

"We are still imprisoned in our cave, with our backs to the light, and can only watch the shadows on the wall."

THAT IS exaggerated scientific modesty, in such a man as Jeans. He shows you a plate, "a minute piece of the sky," three inches wide, five inches long, photographed with the largest telescope in existence, the Mount Wilson 100-inch.

Little white specks on the plate are "nebulae, at a distance such that their light takes 50 million years to reach us."

Remembering that light travels 186,000 miles in a second, how far does it travel from the distant nebulae in 50 million years?

AND WHAT are those nebulae, small specks on a telescopic photograph? Jean says:

"Each nebula contains some thousands of millions of stars, or the material for their formation."

About two million such nebulae can be photographed in all, and there are probably millions of millions of others, beyond the range of any telescope.

Many are not interested in such far away matters, and are rather proud of that. More than a million men and women in Paris have never taken the trouble to visit Notre Dame, and are probably proud of their lack of interest. But, it is not to their credit.

READ JEANS' "The Mysterious Universe," but first read his "The Universe Around Us," which leads up to the book most recently published. Both are published by McMillan. Read and understand them both, and you will be a cosmopolitan in the cosmic sense of the word.

RAMSAY MacDONALD in England, Irving T. Bush, able business man in America, both see prosperity coming back in 1931. Mr. Bush thinks we are having our final housecleaning "after our speculative debauch." Mr. MacDonald expects to "see optimism and courage return, and a new story of progress beginning."

THE TROUBLE is that no one knows what the matter is.

Speculation was only one feature of our foolishness, comparatively unimportant. And there has always been plenty of optimism. The gamblers were gambling, most optimistically, in October, not knowing that the real slump had come the previous June. However nothing lasts forever, and with some stocks, perfectly safe, paying as much as 10 per cent on

DIVA'S SLANDER SUIT OPENS

VIENNA, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Maria Jeritza, American opera singer, was represented by her lawyers when trial of her suit against Dr. Muller Guttenbrunn for defamation of character opened before the district penal court here today.

Mme. Jeritza and her husband, the Baron Leopold von Popper, declared in their complaint that a book written by Dr. Guttenbrunn, entitled "Riff-Raff," depicting a household constantly embroiled in sordid litigation, referred to them. Dr. Guttenbrunn said that he had long planned to write a book contrasting a middle class home with the theater background of make-believe fiction. The author said:

"Life induced me to write this book, but the actors were not taken from life."

He denied that the story referred in any way to the diva.

Secretary Stimson Walks to Work Now

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Secretary Stimson has voluntarily joined the thousands of government employes in Washington who daily walk to work. The chief cabinet officer's home, "Woodley," is too far from the State Department for a brisk after-breakfast walk, so the secretary has his chauffeur drive him daily part way. He walks the remaining distance.

South Park Again Open to Skaters

Skating was resumed today in the county's South Park. Superintendent Paul B. Riis announced that the swimming pool has a coating of ice of glass-like quality.

MANCHESTER SUSPECT CAUGHT

Man Found on North Side Identified by Photograph; Believed Bank Bandit

Joseph Harris, 27, today was arrested as a suspect in the holdup of the Manchester Bank and Trust Company, December 15, when three armed bandits robbed the bank of $50,000.

Detectives Walter Monoghan and Thomas Morgan arrested Harris in a rooming house at 214 West Canal street. With him, detectives said, was Dorothy Martin.

Monoghan said one of the bank officials recognized a picture of Harris. Several officials and employes who witnessed the holdup were to go to detective headquarters this afternoon in an effort to identify Harris in a "standup."

HERE ON VISIT

Harris said, according to the detectives, that he and Miss Martin were from Cleveland and visited Pittsburgh frequently. He refused to make further statements.

Identification of three bandits held in New York in connection with the Perry State Bank robbery here as having held up and robbed a sporting goods store in Paterson, N. J., when $1,000 and revolvers and ammunition were stolen, was a new angle today in the investigation of the bank holdup. Identification of the men as the Paterson bandits was made in New York by Charles B. Vaughan, owner of the store.

HAWTHORNE HOLDUP

Joseph Mosely, detective captain in Paterson, told New York police that he believed the three prisoners would be connected with the robbery of the People's National Bank at Hawthorne, N. J., November 26, when more than $20,000 was stolen.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park today was expected to confer with Attorney George Little to determine whether Christ Denghard, former teller of the National Bank of America, North Side, will be prosecuted in Criminal Court or in the United States Federal District Court.

The charge of embezzlement was brought against Denghard before Justice of the Peace Ira H. Edmundson of Mt. Lebanon and at a hearing before Edmundson Friday, Denghard was held for court.

Wales Rides Horse Which Threw Brother

MELTON MOBRAY, Eng., Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Riding the horse which threw his younger brother, Prince George, on Saturday, dislocating his shoulder, the Prince of Wales today rode to the Quorn hounds, which drew the largest and gayest field of the present hunting season.

The prince's mount was a spirited thoroughbred loaned to him by F. Ambrose Clark, Long Island millionaire horse fancier.

Tombs of Ancient Kings Found at Ur

GUARDS BLOCK JAILBREAK

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—An elaborately planned jail break attempt failed at the Indiana State Prison today. A combined force of guards, city police and firemen forced 12 desperate criminals, who had gained control of their cell block, to surrender without bloodshed.

The 12 men, most of them bank robbers or murderers, had overpowered their guard, Guy Burklow, but not before he shouted an alarm to outside guards.

The convicts barricaded the doors and prevented prison guards from entering, but when city police set up machine guns outside of the door of the cell block and armed firemen augmented the watch on the walls the men surrendered.

Hotel Burns, 15 Feared Dead

COCHRANE, Ont., Dec. 29.—(INS.)—A major tragedy, which may have claimed the lives of between 15 and 20 persons, occurred here today when a disastrous fire leveled the Queens Hotel in this northern Ontario mining town.

Seven persons are known to have perished in the flames and authorities believe that at least a dozen bodies remain in the smoking ruins of the ancient landmark.

One hundred and forty others managed to escape the rush of the flames as the fire roared into the basement of the hotel. The men were unemployed ore miners and had been allowed to sleep there through the kindness of the proprietor.

Included in the known dead are Charles Palangio, the owner of the structure, his wife and their four children, who were cremated in their living apartment on the second floor of the old inn.

Mussolini to Radio Speech for America

At least five American short wave stations will broadcast the speech, making it available to nearly all points of the world. It will be the first time a program originating on Italian soil will be heard in America.

JOFFRE SINKING, DEATH NEAR

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT
International News Service.

PARIS, Dec. 29.—The last thin strand holding Marshal Joseph Joffre to this earth was breaking slowly today.

In an official bulletin issued this afternoon, Profs. Leriche and L'Abbe and Dr. Faure indicated that his death was only a matter of hours, perhaps even minutes. The bulletin said:

"The marshal's weakness is extreme. He is now in his last extremity."

The pain of the aged marshal's suffering in his last hours was lessened by a merciful coma. Hope for his recovery has now been definitely abandoned. The millions of his admirers throughout France and the world who were shocked to learn that the earthly span of the great war hero was nearly ended found some solace in the fact that unconsciousness was dulling his death agony.

Philosophers in Politics May Lose Philosophy

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Dr. Dewey, no relation of any other firm of the same name, is organizing a third party out of the wrecks of the other two.

Dr. Dewey is professor emeritus of philosophy at Columbia University during his working hours.

His political party will be composed of other philosophers. Which is bad.

A philosopher is supposed to accept the decisions of fate calmly, cooly and serenely. But

ELOPING BOXER AND SOCIETY GIRL HELD

Judge Marshall's Daughter Insists Foiled Wedding With De Marco Take Place

Janice Marshall, 20-year-old daughter of Judge Elder W. Marshall, of Allegheny County Common Pleas Court, and Cuddy DeMarco, former pugilist, who were frustrated in an attempted elopement, were being detained in Uniontown today pending their return to Pittsburgh by the girl's father, who arrived in Uniontown late today.

Undaunted by the failure of her escapade, Miss Marshall said:

"My friends may never speak to me again, but it was thrilling just the same."

Judge Marshall said:

"No charges will be made. Beyond that I do not wish to discuss the affair."

Detectives said De Marco would be released from custody.

Miss Marshall, of the younger society set, told Fayette County detectives and newspapermen she and DeMarco, while returning from a party in Mt. Lebanon Saturday night, decided to elope and get married.

BUYING RING, SEIZED

They drove to Cumberland, Md., she related, in her father's car. She said:

"We were in a jewelry store at 10 minutes to 12 last night purchasing a wedding ring when police arrived and took us. We had arranged to be married at a quarter past 12 this morning."

Miss Marshall and DeMarco were taken from Cumberland to Uniontown by County Detectives A. A. Downing and William T. Walker.

Miss Marshall was taken to the home of Walker, where she awaited the arrival of her father, reported en route to Uniontown. De Marco was lodged in jail. No charge appeared against him on the police docket.

New Year's whoopee makers and cabaret owners were given an hour of grace to welcome 1931 Thursday morning in an edict handed down by Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh following a conference this afternoon with Public Safety Director James M. Clark.

Husband Jailed

MRS. ART SHIRES

SHIRES 'VISIT' ENDS IN CELL

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Arthur (Whataman) Shires, major league baseball player, slid into the Hollywood jail early today after paying what he at first believed was but an informal call at the station.

Shires whisked up to the jail in a taxicab and breezed into the station to pay the police his respects. Officers said the erstwhile actor became exceedingly boisterous and he was escorted to his taxi by Sergt. G. C. Towne.

Shires, however, according to police, declined to enter the taxi, so he was escorted back to the station, where officers started to book him on a drunkenness charge.

When Shires was searched police found he was carrying a pair of brass knucklers, a violation of the state law against carrying deadly weapons. Shires' bride was notified and began attempts to obtain his liberty on bail.

20 Gold Miners Die In African Rioting

EATON WINS FIGHT ON COMBINE

Youngstown Judge Restrains Billion-Dollar Bethlehem Consolidation Project

International News Service.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 29.—Writing in pencil upon 19 sheets of foolscap paper, Judge David G. Jenkins today handed down a ruling in Common Pleas Court here holding invalid a proposal to merge Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation into a billion-dollar concern. The judge's decision declared:

"The directors of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company acted without necessary information when they voted last March 12 to approve the merger."

Judge Jenkins declared that the rights of the Sheet and Tube minority stockholders were violated "because information vital to their decision was withheld from them."

VICTORY FOR EATON

The decision was a tremendous victory for Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland millionaire, who led the bitter battle against the consummation of the merger. It likewise was a terrific setback for officials of Sheet and Tube and Bethlehem, who had resisted the efforts of the Cleveland financier to wreck the proposed consolidation.

An immediate appeal from the verdict of Judge Jenkins was expected to be filed by proponents of the merger. Strength was added to this belief in the fact that officials and directors of the Youngstown concern vent into a closed conference immediately upon being notified of the verdict.

Judge Jenkins' decision was handed down six months from the inception of the spectacular industrial battle in which millions of dollars were spent for and against the proposed consolidation and in which some of the most brilliant legal minds in the nation participated.

In making public his verdict in the case, Judge Jenkins stated with evident relief:

DALTON CRITICIZED

The decision criticized the part played in the negotiations by Henry G. Dalton, a director of both companies.

Judge Jenkins declared in the statement that the Bethlehem bonus system under which Presi-

Foster Sees Fisher About Drew's Post

HARRISBURG, Dec. 29.—Judge D. Paulson Foster, of the county court of Allegheny County, conferred today with Gov. Fisher regarding appointment of a judge of Common Pleas Court in the county. A vacancy on the Common Pleas bench will occur next Monday when Judge James B. Drew retires to take his oath as judge of Superior Court, to which he was elected last month. The Governor declined to comment on the Foster conference and would not say whom Foster urged for the Drew berth.

Chess Master, Smoking, Falls Asleep, Burned

AGRAM, Jugoslavia, Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Alexander Alekhine, world chess champion, was painfully burned today when his bed in a hotel room here caught fire from a cigaret.

Alekhine apparently fell asleep with a burning cigaret in his hand. Awakened by the smoke and flames, he staggered from the bed and had reached the door of the room when he collapsed.

One of the world's greatest masters of chess, Alexander Alekhine was born on November 1, 1892, at Moscow. He is the son of A. Alekhine, a marechal de noblesse of the old Russian nobility and a member of the Duma, the former Russian legislative body.

Early in his life Alekhine became fascinated by chess, and earned the title of master in 1909. In 1914 he was created a grand master of the game, and during the last 15 years has participated in more than 20 international tournaments. He has been chess champion of the world since 1927. His home is in Paris.

511 Incomes Over Million In 1928, 'Golden Year'

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—The high tide of 1928 in financial affairs brought the golden harvest of incomes above $1,000,000 to 511 Americans.

The Internal Revenue Bureau showed this in compilations made public yesterday. The 1928 receivers of millionaire income included 74 women, 29 of them single. Twenty-six persons received more than $5,000,000. These were spread over the map from coast to coast but 11 lived in New York.

That rich year showed total net incomes of the nations amounted to $25,226,326,910, more than $2,500,000,000 higher than the previous year. The government obtained $1,164,254,037 as tax. Altogether 4,070,851 persons filed tax returns, but only slightly more than 2,500,000 of these were taxable. The millionaire income class paid a total of $185,140,211 on a total income of $1,108,863,041, for an average of 15.90 per cent compared to 4.65 per cent as an over all average.

Somewhat less than half of the total income, by far the largest single item, was accounted for in salaries and wages, $10,862,330,998. Other sources in the order of their size were given as: Business, partnerships, profits from sale of real estate, stocks and bonds, capital net gains, rents and royalties, etc.

BORAH OPPOSES FORMATION OF THIRD POLITICAL PARTY

JOINS NORRIS IN FIGHTING MOVE

Idaho Senator Sees Failure If Progressives Attempt To Organize New Group

By EDWARD L. BODDAN,
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Formation of a new or third political party was today frowned on by Senator Borah, of Idaho, as the flames of the Norris-Lucas controversy broke out afresh.

Borah, however, declared he opposed such a move. He said:

"There are two things about which I do not feel deeply moved—first, a few men reading somebody out of a party and second, a few men organizing a new party."

In his attitude Borah is at one with Senator Norris. Norris already has been asked to head a third party and has declined.

Asked his views on a third party, Borah declared:

"My observation and my reading leads me to the opinion that new parties cannot be successfully organized by a few men or by a few leaders, however able and sincere they may be.

"There are at least four or five vital issues before our people and a new party could not agree upon a platform on all of them or could not satisfy the constituencies on all of them, any more than the two old parties."

Protest on 25-Cent Charge To Be Heard by Full Board; Company Files Argument

An oral argument before the Public Service Commission on the question of bus fares in Pittsburgh will be held in Harrisburg January 19.

George A. Young attacked the validity of the 25-cent fare charged by the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, a subsidiary of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, before the commission and hearings have been held here.

Young, with the backing of the Allied Boards of Trade, wanted the matter threshed out before the full board of commissioners and the latter granted the request of Attorneys W. G. Negley and George P. Kountz, counsel for Young and the Allied Boards of Trade.

The coach company has already filed its printed argument with the commissioners.

BONUS ISSUE GROWING IN CONGRESS

House Member Declares 60 Per Cent of Legion Posts Back Cash Pay Demand

By ARTHUR HACHTEN.
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Sixty per cent of the members of the American Legion, through their local posts and state departments, have declared in favor of the government paying cash immediately for the adjusted compensation certificates, Representative Wright Patman (Dem.), of Texas, said today he has been informed.

The drive for cash redemption of the insurance certificates is spreading over the country like wildfire, according to reports reaching not only Patman, but scores of other Congressmen.

To redeem all of the insurance certificates would cost the government over $3,000,000,000, more than two-thirds of which would have to be raised by bond issue. But there are many proposals to pay only part of the face value in cash.

HEARING OPPOSED

Though Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has come out against the proposal, the movement plainly is gaining force in Congress. Administration leaders, having easy control of the House, are not disposed to grant even a hearing on the proposal.

Announcement by Representative Hawley (Rep.), of Oregon, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, that he was "standing with the American Legion's Boston action on the proposal," drew from Patman an interpretation of what occurred at the Boston convention.

VANDENBERG DROPS PLAN

In the face of administration opposition, Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), of Michigan, today dropped his plan for immediate payment of the fullfaced value of World War veterans' adjusted compensation certificates as a measure of depression relief, and presented to President Hoover and other interested officials a compromise for their "study and consideration."

Briefly, Vandenberg's newest suggestion would increase the loan value on the certificates to approximately 50 per cent and enable the 1,400,000 veterans who have already borrowed that maximum permitted by law, to get another $250 or $300. He would make proof of personal need a prerequisite to the additional loan.

SECOND PHILA. BANK CLOSES

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—The Aldine Trust Company at Twentieth and Chestnut streets, with two branches in West Philadelphia, did not open for business today.

This action was decided upon last night by its directors who issued a statement that the affairs of the institution had been placed in the hands of the state banking department.

The Aldine Trust Company has assets of $9,000,000. Its deposits, according to the last statement issued in September, totalled $6,400,000.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 29.—The Peoples National Bank of Greensboro, Greene County, a state banking institution, failed to open its doors today. A statement issued by J. D. Swiggart, chief examiner of the State Banking Department, who has taken charge of the institution's affairs, said the bank had been closed because of frozen assets and a steady run on its deposits.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—The Central Trust and Savings Bank of Gary, formerly the South Side Trust and Savings Bank, was closed this morning, the state banking commission was informed. Recent disturbances in banking circles of Gary was held responsible for the closing. It is the seventh bank to close. Seven other banks are in operation.

DE MARCO AND GIRL HELD

lice warning broadcast for his capture, after he and Miss Marshall disappeared, as having a "flat nose and a cauliflower ear." He had little to say of the frustrated elopement. He remarked:

"I don't want to make anyone any trouble."

FORBIDDEN TO SEE CUDDY

Miss Marshall thus described the escapade:

"Cuddy and I have been going together for about a year. My father never approved of him. Last September he forbade me to see him again. But we continued to go out together.

"I went to the party in Mt. Lebanon Saturday night with Nelson Remmen to make it look right to the family. Of course, Cuddy was at the party and I was with him. On the way home Remmen drove so fast that a policeman stopped us. They took Remmen into the Dormont police station and left us outside."

"I couldn't go home with Cuddy, so we decided to run away and get married. It really was Remmen's fault for speeding.

SHE STILL WANTS TO WED

"We left about 4 o'clock Sunday morning and arrived in Cumberland at 8 o'clock. We made arrangements with a clerk to have a marriage license issued to us at 12:15 o'clock this morning. We arranged with a jeweler to sell us a wedding ring in his store last night. We were there picking out the ring when the police came.

"I don't know what to do now. I think it might be best if Cuddy and I were married and had it over with. I hate all this publicity because my father will be furious. I suppose my friends never will speak to me again. All the same it's thrilling."

DE MARCO DIVORCED

De Marco told detectives he and Miss Marshall had been planning an elopment for some time, but had been waiting until she became of age.

De Marco was divorced by Anna J. De Marco in December, 1928. She alleged he had beaten her and knocked her unconscious. In October he spent several days in jail here because of inability to give $500 bail on a charge of passing a bad check preferred against him before an alderman.

FOUGHT OFTEN HERE

He began his fistic career in Charleroi. For several years he was seen frequently in the prize ring here. Later he shifted to Philadelphia. He is aged about 27.

De Marco is said to have met Miss Marshall and other society girls through acquaintances while he was residing in Webster Hall more than a year ago.

Following the disappearance of Miss Marshall and the pugilist, Judge Marshall asked city detectives to trace them. Word was flashed to half a dozen cities, with a description of De Marco and the judge's automobile. The car was taken to Uniontown by Detective Downing in returning with the pair from Cumberland.

FATHER AND SON STAGE RIVALS

Broadway will likely witness father and son as rival playwrights before the season closes, with Owen Davis and Donald Davis enjoying the competition, because the veteran writer is proud of the boy who quit Annapolis to follow the theater.

Owen Davis is spending today in Pittsburgh with Donald to witness the second week of his 26-year-old son's first stage offering, "Made in Hollywood." The comedy moved into the Nixon Theater after opening in Philadelphia last week and is booked for New York at the close of the local engagement.

The senior Davis, author of hundreds of plays, chatting during rehearsal at the William Penn Hotel today, said:

"The old writer must learn from the young ones today. Take my boy's first offering. It was born in his mind from four years spent in Hollywood. A writer of 58 years sees through different eyes. He can be benevolent. My future writings, which will be less in number, will have to possess philosophy rather than the emotion portrayed by younger writers."

MUSCLE SHOALS PACT SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—(Universal.)—Although still unhappily divided, Senate and House conferees will make a further effort this week to reach a compromise on Muscle Shoals legislation.

An agreement thus far has been prevented by the refusal of House conferees to provide sufficient authority for the construction of power transmission lines without further legislation by Congress. The Senate conferees desire to give the necessary authority to build the lines to the proposed Muscle Shoals Corporation.

Disposition of the government's $150,000,000 power and nitrate plant at Muscle Shoals, Ala., was a primary part of the legislative program suggested for the present short session of Congress by the Senate insurgents.

JOFFRE SINKING, FIGHTS DEATH

"The marshal's life is ebbing fast. He is lying as though he were peacefully sleeping."

UNABLE TO TALK

Louis Barthou, French war minister and one of the few allowed at his old friend's bedside, said in leaving the sick chamber at the hospital at noon today:

"The marshal's power of resistance is remarkable. He is still lucid, thought unable to articulate."

A communique issued shortly after dawn stated:

"The night passed without incident. The marshal is weak but conscious. His temperature is 98 degrees; the pulse 90."

One of the several leading medical men who attended the 78-year-old marshal remained at the bedside throughout the night; the rest left the monastic bareness of the sick room in the clinic of St. Jean de Dieu in the Rue Oudinot at 11 o'clock last night. Prof. Leriche, one of the doctors, gave the following answer to anxious questioners:

"He is very feeble. One cannot say how long he will live."

LIQUID FOOD

Ever since then he has been able to take only liquid nourishment. Attending physicians denied that a second operation had been performed.

Papa Joffre remained conscious the greater part of Sunday. He spoke a few words in low tone at intervals, but apparently the effort exhausted him. At 5:40 p. m. he fell into unconsciousness, with only Mme. Joffre and the medical staff remaining at the bedside.

Throughout the day persons of national prominence pressed through the cross section of Parisian life that thronged the Rue Oudinot to watch for bulletins on the marshal's condition.

Thousand of testimonials of sympathy, affection and sorrow came from many parts of the world, including one from King George of England. Saturday, before another sinking spell set in, many of his immediate friends and associates were allowed in the sickroom for a few moments. Yesterday, a meager few were admitted for the briefest time.

Mme. La Filet, the marshal's daughter-in-law, left the hospital shortly after the marshal fell into a coma. She said:

"Nobody is allowed in the room now but Mme. Joffre, who refuses to leave his bedside."

Among the callers were Mme. Foch and Mme. Poincare. There was a delegation also from the little town of Rivesaltes in the Pyrenees, where the marshal was born. Recently the town, through public subscription, completed a statue of its famous son and it had hoped the old soldier himself would return soon to dedicate it.

CUBAN UNREST BANS GAIETY

HAVANA, [illegible] (INS.)—A darkened and [illegible] Havana will greet the ne[illegible]ith the bayonetted g[illegible]diers instead of the u[illegible]y in order, it was indica[illegible]y.

Because of the prevailing unrest, the government ordered all public places where crowds congregate—such as dance halls and clubs—closed pending the continued suspension of constitutional rights.

The secretary of the interior last night padlocked the exclusive Havana Yacht Club on charges that it was a center of conspiracy against the government. The newspaper El Pais stated that the secret police late in the afternoon interrupted an informal gathering at the club, considered the hub of the winter diplomatic society, and ordered everyone to leave.

Prince, Inspired by Seer, Seeks Burmese Throne

RANGOON, Burma, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—The dashing leader of the Burmese rebels in the Tharawaddy district is still a figure of mystery, but one report current here now is that he is a Shan prince whom a fortune teller predicted would be King of Burma and who now is making a bold effort to achieve that object.

Government forces rushed to the region affected by his band's depredations, about 70 miles north of Rangoon, are reported to have him and his wild men hemmed in and it is understood the authorities have decided upon a campaign of starvation as the best means of dealing with the movement. It is believed that this end can be accomplished within a week, obviating the necessity of storming the very strong position in which they have located themselves.

Their mysterious leader is a man of such determination that it is ragarded as not unlikely he will issue forth at any time with the same rushing tactics which have characterized his operations thus far. His men are adepts in jungle warfare, not unlike the American Indians of the old days in their ability to approach their objective noiselessly as cats. Their belief in amulets and charms has given them notable boldness.

Coolidge Sees Scant Hope for Third Party

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Dec. 29.

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

It does not seem likely that any attempt made in the near future to start another political party could succeed. It is an enormous undertaking that requires the force of some great moral upheaval to make it effective. Without a political leader of nation-wide influence no practical result would be secured.

Calvin Coolidge

So far as now appears any new party would have to be radical. Because the Democratic party has had the Solid South without much regard to issues it has usually tried to appeal to the radicals in the North. If it were to lose this strength it could not win. If there were no choice at the next presidential election the decision would go to the House of Representatives, where in 1932 the Republicans will control a majority of the states and so would elect a Republican president. A third party apparently would ensure a Republican victory. For that reason any plan to start a new party will not seem practical. But in addition to this our people are not third party minded. They believe all necessary reforms can be secured within the old parties and that they are the best instruments of government.

'Numbers' Men May Bootleg Clearing House Figures

RACKETEERS IN NEW YORK FOR DEAL

Pittsburghers Forget Their Differences, Combine to Procure Tabooed Totals

Pittsburgh's biggest "numbers" bookies were waiting anxiously today for word from their chieftains, who were reported conferring in New York today with an eye to "bootlegging" New York Clearing House figures after they go under censorship Friday with the year's end.

Representatives of the pool operating in Oakland, Squirrel Hill, Wilkinsburg, the Hill, Hazelwood, Lawrenceville districts, many foes who have "buried the hatchet," and portions of West Virginia, Eastern Ohio and other Western Pennsylvania districts left the city Saturday night in an effort to unravel the tangle which has ensnared the Pittsburgh "numbers" racket since announcement of censorship of the New York figures.

Their plan is said to be the "bootlegging" of the figures by bribing a Clearing House attendant to slip them out each day. The number then would be printed in a publication, which they would distribute free of charge daily to players.

The importance of the men at the conference is expected to be sufficient to sway the smaller operators and pools in the city. Just what the effect would be on the North Side operators, smaller but powerful, has aroused considerable discussion.

Meanwhile, the "smaller fry," under leadership of North Side operators, were scheduled for a conference tonight. They are said to favor the Pittsburgh Clearing House figures as a basis for play, the bookies to close the night before announcement of the winning number.

CRILE SEEKS CAUSE OF MALADY

Reveals Secret Study to Savants; Living Organisms Created, Active for Months

CLEVELAND, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—The artificially created life cell of Dr. George W. Crile is an attempt to penetrate the mystery of cancer, The Cleveland savant broke his silence about the recent rumors of his discovery and revealed the secret to the American Association for the Advancement of Science today.

Crile's accomplishment is described most simply as breaking Humpty Dumpty to bits and putting him together again so that he appears alive.

The Humpty Dumptys he employs are cells, the tiny units forming bodies of animals, which are the prototype of all eggs.

He has tried this on brain, body and cancer cells, but the brain cell alone thus far has shown the master-like qualities necessary for the rejuvenation.

CANCER CELLS DIFFER

When cancer cells were used a different effect was found, one whose significance has not been determined, for Crile said this is a preliminary report. He said:

"The research was undertaken for the purpose of discovering some physical principle which might account for the conversion of normal cells into cancer cells: into cells the energy of which is used only for growth."

He "postulated" that if the substances forming a living cell were mixed together properly in an electrical solution, these substances would organize themselves into a "unit which would present a cell-like form."

In other words, something life-like might result without intervention of the usual union of male and female elements.

USES FRESH BRAINS

He separated brain cells into their constituent fats, proteins and ash. He found that only fresh brains retained the power to reunite, but that by preserving the fats in ether he could wait perhaps a month after death and still get the return.

When ready the three brain substances were mixed in distilled water containing some salts. The salts produced the electrical effect.

In this water the scattered brain matter reunited into microscopic objects having the shape of cells, a nucleus or center, and hairlike projections.

They grew like living things. Sometimes, said Crile, they did this by putting out buds and sometimes by dividing, each artificial cell thus becoming two, just as in nature's method of growth.

They consumed oxygen and they gave off carbon dioxide as do other living, breathing things.

They showed the power of rapid movement, so that sometimes it was difficult to keep them under the field of the microscope. They took "vital stains" which is a method of using dyes to make tiny objects visible.

By feeding these cells were kept alive and active for two and one-half months.

REPLICA OF OLD CHURCH IN USE

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Dec. 29.—Seventy-five persons worshiped yesterday in the replica of the first Protestant church in United States built west of Pennsylvania, on the site of the original chapel dedicated October 24, 1772, at Schoenbrunn State Memorial Park.

Lighted candles were distributed to worshipers as was done at similar services during the life of the settlement, 1772-77, by the Rev. David Zeisberger, founder of the Christian-Indian settlement. The Moravian Church established the mission and the first town in the Northwest territory.

DRY QUIZ DATA READY JAN. 5

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—(INS.)—The Wickersham Law Enforcement Commission will file its long-delayed and much-anticipated report on prohibition with President Hoover January 5, according to word sent congressional leaders by its chairman, George W. Wickersham, it was learned today.

The filing of the report on the day Congress convenes will toss the prohibition issue into a session already overcrowded with unfinished legislation. The report, particularly if it recommends a vital change in the prohibition law, may prove to be the extra straw necessary to force a special session of the new Congress after March 4.

Administration leaders have been bending every energy toward preventing a special session.

If the commission makes specific recommendations for transmission to Congress, the prohibition war will flare up in both House and Senate.

The present Congress could scarcely enact a new dry law or a modification of the Volstead Act in the two months remaining before adjournment. Consequently, any agitation over prohibition changes would lead inevitably to a special session, unless Mr. Hoover definitely decided to postpone action on the dry law until next December.

PACT FOR INDIA EBLIEVED NEAR

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(AP.)—Establishment of a responsible government for India, answerable to an all-Indian legislature except on five subjects, was thought by close observers today to be the probable outcome of the Round Table Conference, which resumed its work after the Christmas holidays.

The five reserved subjects, which will probably be dealt with by the Imperial authority, are:

Under the five subjects it has been suggested that working arrangements between the British and Indian governments be set up.

CHILD PREFERS BARTHELMESS

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Little Mary Hay Barthelmess passed through Chicago today en route from Hollywood to New York—and she would rather have stayed in California.

That was on the word of the 5-year-old daughter of Richard Barthelmess and his former wife, Mary Hay, before the child's governess snatched her away to forestall her being questioned as to battles her parents were waging over her custody.

Jumping up and down on the railway platform in clothes seemingly too light for a traveler from a land of palm trees to the snappy temperatures of the North, Mary said she expected to stay with mamma in New York for the next six months.

Stories published in New York pictured the dancer beside a Christmas tree loaded with toys waiting in vain for her child whom Barthelmess refused to send. But little Mary Hay, hugging a toy, said she had a wonderful Christmas. Now she is going to see mamma for New Year's—and run into a second Christmas.

New Englanders Vote to Smoke In Diners

BOSTON, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Dining car customers on the Boston and Maine Railroad may smoke beginning January first as a result of a month's poll conducting in dining cars of the road's crack trains.

The vote revealed 78 per cent in favor of smoking and 22 per cent against. Seventy four per cent of the women favored tobacco with their meal and eighty per cent of the men.

MINISTER'S SON HELD IN KILLING

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Robert L. Williams, 18, Texas University student charged with the murder of his sweetheart, Miss Elizabeth Johnson, 16, was bound over to the grand jury on $10,000 bond at preliminary hearing here today. Williams sobbed a denial to his father, a Methodist minister.

Miss Elizabeth Johnson, 16-year-old high school girl of Port Arthur, the youth's fiancee, was found shot to death in the student's automobile. He told officers he had quarreled with her over attentions paid her by a married man, but denied the shooting.

The Rev. S. W. Williams, father of the youth and presiding elder of the Austin district of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, arrived from Austin and was permitted to talk to his son.

Miss Johnson was buried here yesterday. Williams expressed a desire to attend the funeral, but was denied permission.

After his arrest, Williams said he had left the girl adone in the car for a short time, and when he returned found her slumped over in the seat, apparently shot with a revolver he had made in the university laboratory from a rifle.

COUPLE SLAIN OVER DANCE

DOVER, Del., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—They were dancing the old-fashioned "Paul Jones" at a private party at Chapeltown, near here. In the middle of it Noah Downs drew a pistol and killed Earnest Killen, 35, and Mildred Long, 15, schoolgirl.

The signal had been given "take your partner."

"I have the right hand," said Killen, "so I guess the dance is mine."

"I have the left," said Downs, "and the left is nearest the heart."

The girl turned toward Killen and they moved away. Downs thrust them apart, but the girl again chose Killen. Then Downs started shooting. With Killen and the girl dead on the floor, Downs walked toward the door and awaited arrival of the police.

GERMANS URGE WAR ON POLAND

HAMBURG, Germany, Dec. 29.—(Universal.)—A call to arms against Poland is sounded by the conservative nationalistic newspaper, Hamburger Nachrichten, which today alleges that Poland is concentrating troops along the German border, housing them in newly-built barracks.

The newspaper's allegations are based on reports of travelers returning from Gleiwitz, a city in Southwest German Silesia, five miles from the Polish frontier.

Nachricten warns that a German-Polish war would result in France and perhaps Russia and Italy being drawn into the conflict.

Chicago Kosher War Involves 6 Officers

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Six officers of the Chicago Shochim, the authorized organization for killing of Kosher fowl for Orthodox Jews, were under suspension today.

Chicago Ride Victim 'Mum' While Dying

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Although dying of three bullet wounds received during a typical gang "ride," Steve Ruciewski, 37, today maintained a steadfast silence, refusing to name his would-be slayers or to give a motive for the attempted slaying.

Ruciewski, whose record dates back 21 years, staggered into a South Side restaurant yesterday with three bullet wounds. Although he told an incoherent story of a holdup, witnesses said he had been tossed from an automobile.

SEEK $100,000 MISSING GEMS

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Police and private detectives today searched for jewels valued at between $100,000 and $200,000, which were stolen from or lost by Mrs. Edgar F. Luckenback wife of the shipping man.

The jewels have been missing since December 18, when Mrs Luckenback closed her Long Island home and left for Palm Beach.

Police also were informed today of the loss of a $16,500 pearl necklace by Miss Marie de Carle, of New York. She said she lost the necklace while touring night clubs on December 22.

Texas Guinan, night club hostess, reported the loss of a $3,500 diamond studded meshbag at a theater.

NAME RECEIVER FOR STORE

Campbell's department store, 327-31 Fifth avenue, one of the oldest department stores in the district, went into receivership today after an equity suit had been brought in Federal Court by Robert S. Campbell, of California, a stockholder. He said the company owed him $25,000 on a loan.

Judge R. M. Gibson appointed P. D. Campbell, president of the concern, and the Peoples Pittsburgh Trust Company as receivers, with bond set at $25,000. The receivers will continue to operate the store until further notice from the court.

The complaint sets forth that the company is solvent, with assets in excess of liabilities, but that it lacks sufficient funds to meet obligations already matured, or about to mature.

The company, through its president, filed an answer, admitting the complaints, joining in the petition for receivership, and stating that the receivership was agreed to by the board of directors December 26.

The bill of complaint blamed the present condition of the store on the decrease in business volume and the increase in cost of operation—this increase due, in part, to city, county and school taxes, which swelled from $15,000 in 1915 to more than $44,000 now.

Einstein's Pasadena Hosts Plan Treat of Privacy

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Dr. Albert Einstein, to arrive here with his wife New Year's Eve, will be accorded an unusual tribute—he will be left entirely to himself.

Arthur H. Fleming, president of the board of the California Institute of Technology, and Henry M. Robinson, nationally known financier, who will act as hosts of the Einsteins, revealed today no public receptions were planned.

In accordance with Dr. Einstein's wish for privacy Fleming said a private dwelling had been reserved for him, and plans to provide him with a four-room suite at the Athenaeum, the gathering place of scientists on the institute Campus, were dropped.

Fleming said while no public receptions will be held "one or two" invitational dinners will be given at the Athenaeum in honor of the visiting scientist.

Robert M. McCurdy, adjutant of the Pasadena Post of the American Legion, said "We shall feel highly honored if Dr. Einstein will address our membership upon any topic whatever." At a recent meeting of Legionnaires in Los Angeles a suggestion was made that war veterans take steps to bar his landing in California because "of his Pacifistic views."

Dr. Adams, head of the Wilson Observatory, a Carnegie Institution project, said he believed Dr. Einstein would spend a night at the observatory. He said Dr. Einstein had no fixed program of research in mind in coming here.

Weather Conditions.

There is a marked low-pressure area, centered between the Great Lakes and Hudson Bay, lowest barometer reported, 29.32 inches, at White River. The Low covers the whole eastern half of the country, and is responsible for cloudy weather from Illinois to the Coast. It produced only light precipitation throughout its area. The only other pressure unit on the map is the High, centered over Idaho. It is causing clear skies over most of the western states. There was a marked rise in temperature over the central plains and a fall over Manitoba. Elsewhere the temperature changes were slight. The temperatures are still considerably above the seasonal normal over the northern states and no change to severely cold weather is indicated for the next several days.

MAN YIELDS IN FATAL JAIL RAID

SALEM, Ind., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Gilfred Gibson, 36, who with his three brothers stormed the Washington County jail Saturday night in an attempt to gain custody of two men accused of the feud slaying of their father, surrendered to a posse which surrounded his home near here yesterday.

Otis Gibson, the youngest brother, was killed during the jail raid in an exchange of shots with Elmer Gerald, Salem town marshal, and the officer was seriously wounded.

Sheriff Milton Trinkle was wounded in the knee and his wife, Ida, a deputy, was shot in the thigh when they refused to deliver the keys to the cell in which John and Pleas Spurlock were being held for the alleged slaying of Patton Gibson two weeks ago.

Although armed when three automobile loads of officers and members of the American Legion surrounded his home, Gilfred Gibson surrendered when he saw he was outnumbered. Meanwhile, another posse continued its search for Dan and Alonzo Gibson, reported in another part of the county.

HEARST CENSOR PLEA UPHELD

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Commenting on William Randolph Hearst's recent editorial suggesting voluntary censorship of the stage, Supreme Court Justice John C. Ford, the Rev. Christian F. Reisner, of Broadway Temple, and Moses J. Stroock, chairman of the Board of Higher Education, declared themselves as definitely in favor of censorship. Judge Ford said:

"Censorship should not be by the stage, for it has proved unable to censor itself. Censorship should be from without. It is always the province of every country under Anglo-Saxon institutions to protect public morality. The only way to do it is by the law of the land, or such a censorship as Mr. Hearst suggests."

Pointing out that even basically good plays drag in some salaciousness because they think they can't live without it, the Rev. Dr. Reisner said:

"Something ought to be done. The stage is making common property an uncleanliness which ought to be uncommon. It degenerates our people and wrecks ideals."

Mr. Stroock said he believed the stage needed censorship, but that it should come from within. He would avoid national censorship as a dangerous precedent.

Philosophers in Politics

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

And we'll guarantee Dr. Dewey and his service philosophers will gallop around claiming everything, conceding nothing and bawling for a recount.

No sir, it cannot work in politics. You are not going to accept what fate and the gods may give you when you have paid two dollars a vote for something else.

We should advise Dr. Dewey to stick to his Columbia campus.

Either that, or try to make the Notre Dame backfield.

When you first wire this idea for sound it seems to be arbitrary, dogmatic, imperialistic and other words in the thickest part of the dictionary.

On the second hand, however, it ain't a bad amendment. Home cooking means food.

Food means the supper table. And that's where all the arguments take place.

It's going to lead to plenty of commonistic reprisals.

You've got to go to the state armory for your toothpicks.

The Army cooks your food.

And the Navy eats it.

Do you mean to say that a man cannot munch a soda cracker in his own solarium?

That's what it means. No more home cooking. You don't have to carry an umbrella in crumb storms when the Soviet wives are shaking the table cloths out of the window.

No more raids on that ice box at midnight. Even now the Soviet Landsturm are lining up with bayonet and grenade to inaugurate a military search for caviar in whiskers.

It's tough. But it's perfect Communism.

If you have two pigs, you give me one.

WRITER BACKS STAGE PURITY ULTIMATUM

Winifred Black in Plea for Good Taste Hits Barroom Ribaldry of Theaters

By WINIFRED BLACK.
(General Service.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—Clean up the stage or somebody will step in and clean it up for you.

That's what the Rev. James Gillis told a meeting of the Catholic Actors' Guild in New York the other day.

I wonder if you're right, Father Gillis. I do hope you are, for if ever any stable needed a good pitchfork and a dose of antiseptic solution or a few buckets of cleansing ammonia—the stage needs a cleanup today.

A joke is a joke and nobody with any sense objects seriously to a bit of satire that is perhaps—er—what we used to call "a little blue."

NOT INFANTS

We are none of us, who go to the theater often, infants in long clothes and we do not crimson vicariously at meeting a few honest facts face to face.

We are men and women of the world—but must we live in the gutter and in the sewers—all the time? Is nothing true or real that is not odoriferous?

There were always theaters and dives where those who liked that sort of thing could go and get the slimy stuff they craved—but how is it that we have let the ooze and slime creep up into the decent theaters where decent people must go if they go anywhere at all?

POOR SUBJECTS FOR JESTS

Love betrayed, innocence forgotten, faith and fidelity derided—these things are in life, we all know.

And nobody with any sense at all wants to deny their existence, but why make a filthy joke of them and ask people with minds and hearts and souls to wade in the gutter and pretend to enjoy it?

I do not speak for morals—your morals are no concern of mine—nor my principles any concern of yours. But good taste—are we going to let that be utterly submerged by the stream of filth that is flowing in and out of our theaters and up and down our streets and back and forth to the very doors of our own homes where we are supposed to bring up our children with some respect for decent ideals?

FIVE OF SEVEN OFFENSIVE

Last winter when I was in New York I saw seven plays and five of them were an affront to taste. The actresses said things that should never have been said anywhere outside the redlight district.

And the people in the theater nudged each other and whispered in awe-struck voices. And felt very worldly and wise and knowing, indeed.

And they weren't worldly and wise and knowing at all. They were just ignorant and coarse and vulgar minded and very, very naive.

If they hadn't been, they would have known that there is nothing new about vulgarity.

OLD IN BARNYARDS

All the "plain talk" that was so thrilling to them in the theater has been going on in waterfront saloons and barnyards ever since there has been a barnyard or a saloon in existence.

Why bring the barnyard sights and sounds and point of view—and smells—into the house and offer them as entertainment for your family and your guests?

The theater is not the only place where vulgarity is running wild these days. Its the commonest thing in the world to see a whole table of bridge players laughing themselves purple in the face over the story of the traveling gentleman and the chambermaid—as old as the hills and as dull as ditchwater.

And the most pitiful part of it all, the tellers of the crass vulgarity are either poor little girls in their teens or pitiful old women painted and bedizened to look as much like youth, poor things, as they vainly hope they can.

BEGIN AT HOME

Yes, Father Gillis, we are ready for a cleanup of the stage. But let's begin the cleanup at home, at our own dinner tables and our own bridge parties. Hypocrisy, they say, is the homage vice pays to virtue.

Let's have the virtue, if we can, in the name of youth and innocence, and if we can't have it lets wear a cloak of taste.

Illusions, dreams, ideals—let's keep just a few of these things if we don't want to see the whole world go stark, staring mad and rolling in the fetid gutter that we call "realism" today.

AUTO SHOW CONTEST

$300 CASH PRIZES — 200 SHOW Tickets

(The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph co-operating with the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association, is donating these prizes for the best answers and slogans.)

Here is the Sun-Telegraph Automobile Puzzle Contest, based on passenger cars to be exhibited in the forthcoming annual Automobile Show to be held at Motor Square Garden, January 17 to 24, inclusive.

One or two puzzle pictures, in each of which will be concealed the name of an automobile and in each of which are hidden several words, will be published every day in the daily and Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

Readers of the Sun-Telegraph are invited to find the names of the automobiles and to name the hidden words in each puzzle and send them to the Auto Show Contest Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, 612 Grant street, together with a good slogan, descriptive of the Automobile Show. YOU MUST SEND ALL YOUR ANSWERS AT THE SAME TIME IN ONE ENVELOPE AT THE COMPLETION OF THE CONTEST. ACCURACY, NEATNESS AND CLEVERNESS OF SLOGAN WILL BE CONSIDERED IN AWARDING THE PRIZES.

Prizes totaling $300 in gold and 200 show tickets are to be awarded the winners in the contest. Be sure to put your name and address with the slogan at the top of the first page. Your name should appear on each page you send in.

The final pictures will be published January 15. All answers must be in the hands of the Auto Show Contest Editor no later than noon, Friday, January 16. The winners will be announced at the Automobile Show, Monday evening, January 19, and in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph January 20.

At various times during the contest, the names of passenger cars to be exhibited at the show will be printed. From this list contestants are to pick the names of the cars.

CONTESTANTS ARE NOT TO SEND IN ANSWERS UNTIL THE FINAL PUZZLE PICTURES HAVE BEEN PRINTED. THEN SEND THEM IN ALL TOGETHER AT THE SAME TIME. WRITE THE NAMES OF THE CARS ON SEPARATE SHEETS OF PAPER WITH THE HIDDEN WORDS OF EACH PICTURE IN THE ORDER IN WHICH THE PICTURES APPEARED.

Your slogan must accompany the answers. It may be either rhyme or prose and should be applicable to the Automobile Show. It must be short, snappy and clever. Remember, it is an important factor in deciding the winners.

Any person is eligible to enter this contest except employes of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph or members of their families.

Judge Grants Injunction Restraining Combine; Eaton Wins Long Battle

dent Eugene B. Grace was paid more than $1,600,000 in 1929, should have been revealed to the stockholders.

The opponents of the merger drew the attack of the judge in regard to the employment of an independent accounting firm to check the report of Price, Waterhouse and Company, merger accountants. The report filed by the anti-merger firm was misleading, the decision said.

Judge Jenkins made it clear in his statement that his decision did not attempt to deal exclusively with the many issues of the case. His decision said:

"No pretense is made of setting forth all of the facts, enough only being given for a general understanding of the situation under review. No attempt is made to marshall all legal authorities or all facts in the record, purporting my conclusion."

Charles F. Smith, a member of the Eaton legal staff, said, after the decision was announced, that he "had felt throughout there could have been no other result on the evidence presented."

GREAT BATTLE

The fight over the fate of Youngstown Sheet and Tube was one of the greatest battles in industrial history. All the power of men and money was thrown into the war, which was carried into Common Pleas Court here last June 25. The trial lasted until November 7, when Judge Jenkins took the mountainous mass of evidence presented in the long court seige and retired to consider his verdict.

The decision leaves Sheet and Tube an independent concern and, whether or not it is in the mind of Eaton, the so-called "Little Napoleon of the Midwest," paves the way for a combination of the Youngstown concern with his own Republic Steel Corporation, which he engineered late in 1929.

Actual negotiations for the merger of Sheet and Tube with Bethlehem were begun last January. They were revealed in March, and as soon as they were unveiled the battle began.

The preliminary arrangements for the merger were made secretly—so secretly in fact that Eaton did not learn of the proposed deal until March 7, three months afterward.

EATON IGNORED

Over Eaton's objection, a meeting of the Sheet and Tube directors was called for March 10 for action on the proposal. On March 11, the deal was ratified by the directors and on April 8, after a hectic battle of proxies, the proposal was approved by stockholders of the Youngstown concern.

Prior to this Eaton had charged that he was refused permission to inspect the figures upon which the merger was based.

He also charged that Bethlehem bonuses and salaries were exorbitant and that the deal was made without an appraisal of either company. It was further alleged that more than 200,000 of the proxies counted at the stockholders meeting April 8 were voted illegally.

Outstanding among the anti-merger arguments at the trial here was the contention that differences in bookkeeping methods between Sheet and Tube and Bethlehem, resulted in a $50,000,000 "error" to the detriment of stockholders of the Youngstown concern.

The merger had been sought on a basis of stock exchange of one and one-third of Bethlehem for one of Sheet and Tube.

The anti-mergerists contended a "fair ratio" would have been 1.79 to 1.

GRACE, EATON SILENT

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, and Cyrus E. Eaton, who led the victorious forces opposed to the merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube company and Bethlehem Steel corporation, both declined today to comment upon the decision of Judge David Jenkins in Youngstown, holding invalid the proposal to merge the two companies into a billion-dollar corporation. Grace said:

"Until we have the benefit of careful study of the decision, I am naturally not in a position to make any comment."

present cost, there is bound to come a change.

A FINE NEW church in New York, called "The Rockefeller Church," because Mr. Rockefeller helped build it, is ornamented with many statues of saints. That you expect.

It is also decorated, which you do not expect, with statues of scientists, and strangest of all, one statue represents the living Einstein.

THE GREAT mathematician went, with his wife, to see himself in stone, and was well pleased with the company about him. Newton, Kepler, Galileo and others. He remarked that such a combination on any church would not be possible in Europe, with great religious characters honored, side by side with great scientists, the only living man among them being a Jewish mathematician undertaking to set bounds to the universe.

However, gargoyles on the old cathedrals showed many devils, and monstrous offensive beasts, far worse than scientists.

REAR ADMIRAL MOFFETT says this country must expand its airplane-carrier tonnage to the limit allowed by the London treaty, to avoid dangerous inferiority. He demands fast cruisers, built to carry airplanes on their decks.

PLANE CARRIERS of all kinds are built on the assumption that airplanes must have some place to land. The plane is used, with the carrier, as men used hawks for hunting. In ancient times, the bird returning to rest on its owner's wrist.

WHY DOES this richest government in the world, with all its able engineers, continue to assume that the airplane must be a limited, feeble thing, not really reliable in flight? Why does not the government build planes that would not need any carrier on which to roost? It can be done, and this richest nation should do it.

Half the money spent on one battleship would perfect aviation to the extent of making carriers unnecessary.

ONCE STEAMSHIPS all carried sails, fearing to rely entirely on steam, and houses with electric light had gas installed also "in case the current should give out."

Such is the present stage of flying. This government, that may some day depend for its safety on perfected airplanes, should build planes independent of carriers and weather.

UTILITIES SEE LARGER GAINS IN NEW YEAR

Industry Has Continued Its Expansion Despite Depression in Other Lines

By W. S. COUSINS,
Financial Editor International News Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Business depressions come and go, but the public utility industry continues its uninterrupted expansion. Even in the depression year 1930, leaders in the industry point out, sales of gas and electric light to homes and commercial establishments increased and the necessity of further expansion of facilities was clearly established.

In an exclusive statement for International News Service M. S. Sloan, president of the New York Edison Company, said today:

"Like all other business, the electric utilities have felt the depression of 1930. There has been a serious falling off in large power sales to factories. There was, however, an increase in sales to homes and commercial establishments. There was also, for our companies in New York City, and many others I've heard of, a good increase in sales of equipment which will be reflected in sales of current henceforth.

IMPROVEMENT SEEN

"My belief is that business will gradually improve in the new year. Hand to mouth purchasing can hardly be pushed further. Despite widespread unemployment, the great majority of people have jobs and money. Our own experience is that people purchase readily when convinced of the usefulness and value of the goods.

This means money in circulation and more goods to be manufactured. Sales of electricity will increase as business improves, and sales to homes are pretty certain to continue to grow in any case."

Martin J. Insull, president of the Middle West Utilities Company, points out that in the early months of the year the state of mind of American business was more depressed than business itself. Today, says Mr. Insull, the state of mind is better than business and this of itself is a strong indication that business is improving, since confidence and courage are prime requisites. He said:

"The unemployment and hardship that business fluctuations visit upon a part of our population, are conditions that must be corrected so far as it is humanly possible before American business can consider its task wholly accomplished. The business leadership of America cannot, of course, be held responsible for human foibles or for personal extravagance and reconcile distribution and consumption with production. We must recognize the simple but frequently obscured fact that not money but goods is the output of business.

NO OVERPRODUCTION

"The electric light and power industry in 1930 presented a picture of rather happy adjustment to the primary necessities of our economic system. In a period when over-production had become a problem, sales of power to large industrial producers of the United States as a whole declined, though not materially, compared with 1929.

"For the territory as a whole served by the Middle West Utilities System, sales of power for the year to large producers increased, but the rate of increase showed a considerable decline.

"On the other hand, sales of electric energy to domestic consumers, both in the United States as a whole and in the territory served by the Middle West Utilities System, registered a satisfactory increase over even those of 1929.

"It seems to me that the trend of energy sales, and especially those of the past few weeks, is most assuring evidence that confidence and courage is growing in our industrial and trade system and must finally result in continuously improving business conditions."

OUTLOOK BRIGHTER

Frank T. Hulswit, president of the American Commonweaths Power Corporation, also sees a brighter outlook for the utility industry, not only for the first few months, but for the whole of 1931. He said:

"The year 1930 witnessed many mergers and consolidations in the utility field, with resultant economies in operating costs and in the cost of new capital necessary to the expansion of facilities to meet increased demands encouraged by the lowering of rates for service to the consumer and as a result of these economies. Relations with the public were never as good as at present. This feeling of confidence on the part of the public in the utilities is the result of fairness on the part of the service companies.

"While utility earnings, in general, declined somewhat, the earnings of our own particular company continued to increase. Advices received from all points served by our system are optimistic and forecast a demand on our facilities as great and in many cases greater than were made during the present calendar year. This increased demand, naturally, will necessitate new construction and will mean purchases of much material and the employment of much labor, all of which will tend to relieve the present somewhat depressed production and utilization of labor.

"Taken as a whole, I believe that business in general will improve and become increasingly better and I look forward to 1931 with a great deal of optimism."

Showboat Famous on Three Rivers Now Derelict

MOUND CITY, Ill., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—When the first freshets of spring swell the current of the Ohio River, the famous old showboat French's New Sensation will leave the marine ways to go to its grave.

Behind the old craft lies half a century of travel, bringing glamor and romance into the lives of thousands of people along the Ohio and Mississippi and Missouri rivers. The sound of hammer and saw will be heard, removing all that is valuable. Then billows of smoke and tongues of flame, and the charred hull will go down the river, where its ribs will bleach on some lonely beach of the Ohio. Capt. French, builder of the boat, has been dead 25 years.

The heyday of the showboat business was over with the coming of the movies, the automobile and hard roads. But when the Sensation was in its prime, the strident strains of its calliope called the folk from cotton plantations, from farms and from cities.

The boat was sold recently for $1,500 by court order to pay storage costs. It was pulled into the old navy yard here in 1927 for repairs and was never taken out. Handbills tacked to the walls of the boat show a chorus of six girls, the last to dance on the boards of the Sensation's stage.

The office safe, a small iron box, is rusty. When spring comes it will be "curtain" and "lights out" for French's New Sensation.

PENNA. INCOME TAX PAYMENT UP IN 1929

Federal Revenue in State Increased $18,000,000; 3,880 Rate Millionaires

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Individuals and corporations of Pennsylvania last year paid the federal government a total of $200,772,677, representing income tax payments covering the year 1928, a report issued by the Treasury Department revealed today.

The state total was swelled by collections from 3,880 persons who reported personal incomes sufficient to place them in the category of millionaires, a classification which includes all net incomes of $50,000 and over. The figure represents a return of 5 per cent on an investment of $1,000,000.

INCOMES OVER MILLION

Actually, however, there were 61 persons in the state with incomes of $1,000,000 and more, while two reported incomes totaling $18,124,557.

The total number of returns filed in Pennsylvania was 386,777. Of these 361,228 were filed by individuals and 25,558 by corporations. Corporations paid $184,608,212 of the total tax, while collections from individuals amounted to $96,772,465.

In addition the report showed that a total of $6,342,557 was collected by the government in federal estate taxes, minus deductions.

CORPORATION INCOMES

The total gross income of Pennsylvania corporations filing returns was given as $10,209,116,754, and the net income of the same corporations was $905,714,347. There were 13,376 corporations reporting net incomes.

The total net income of individuals filing returns was $2,304,955,406, compared with $2,091,825,217 for the year previous, which represents a substantial increase.

Contrasted with the preceding year, the total tax payments during 1928 incomes represent an increase of approximately $18,000,000. Collections from corporations decreased slightly while individuals paid the government approximately $18,000,000 more than for the preceding year.

INDIVIDUAL AVERAGES UP

The average net income of individuals filing returns in Pennsylvania last year was $6,104, as against an average net income of only $5,485 the year before, and the average tax paid by the same group for 1928 operations was $268, compared with $206 the previous year.

Starting with the higher brackets, the state had two persons with incomes of $5,000,000 and over; four persons with incomes of $4,000,000 to $5,000,000; one person with income of $3,000,000 to $4,000,000; two with incomes of $2,000,000 to $3,000,000; 1 from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000; 21 from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000; 24 with incomes of $750,000 to $1,000,000; 44 with incomes of $500,000 to $750,000; 58 from $400,000 to $500,000; and 1,204 with incomes between $100,000 and $400,000.

In the $10,000 to $11,000 class, there were 3,869 persons in the state, and almost as many in the class from $11,000 to $12,000.

Persons of incomes from $1,000 to $2,000 numbered 83,385, the largest single group.

The Loudspeaker

—By LOUIS REID—

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Promptitude and zeal, the watchwords of the radio bigwigs, are evident in the results of the recent merger of Columbia and a group of concert bureaus.

Less than two weeks after he announces the alliance, Mr. Paley launches upon the radio sea a boatload of stars, whose passenger list includes Ernest Hutcheson, Florence Easton, Sophie Braslau, Nelson Eddy and a symphony band under the baton of Josef Pasternack. Moreover, observing the scarcity of imposing names on weekday schedules he wisely sets aside a Friday night for their journey to the armchairs.

* * *

All of these artists have been heard on the air channels, but no program as yet has combined their various talents. Without the assistance of vocalists or a Pasternack orchestra the name of Hutcheson alone should attract the ear-cuppers, particularly if he indulges in his diverting practice of tracing famous rowdy chants to their native lair.

Once, you may recall, he tracked "We Won't Go Home Until Morning" back to Beethoven. He might continue his researches further. The tune undoubtedly goes back to the cave men.

* * *

The most brilliant programs of Christmas week—in the unusualness of their appeal they are far superior to those broadcast in any previous week—were the Philadelphia Orchestra, the musical greetings from the Orient, the organ music and choral singing from the home of George Eastman in Roches and the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and choir.

Most novel of all, of course, were the programs from Shanghai, Manila, Tokio and Honolulu, combining native music with the chimes of old Spanish cathedrals. This 40-minute broadcast brought a spectacular climax to a year significantly ushered in on the radio with America's pajama-clad audience with the King.

* * *

The maestros are turning their jazz pens to the "Sidewalks of New York." Maybe that's what the Democrats need—a new and jazzy version of the song.

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

Too few times at this season do we hear the lovely "Largo" from Handel's "Xerxes." It is with delight then that we direct you to KDKA at 9 to hear Lillian Knowles, contralto, sing it with full orchestral accompaniment. Fruhl's "L'Amour Toujours L'Amour" meaning "Love Everlasting," snares the tenor tone of Lewis James, WCAE, at 9:30.

* * *

The Chinese custom of paying off personal debts the first day of the year furnishes Mrs. R. Templeton Jones with an idea for her New Year's Party at Thompkins Corners.

* * *

Like George Washington and the Sun-Telegraph, Tony Cabooch is first in everything, so he chooses WJAS at 7:45 to give his "New Year's Resolutions"—beating the rest of the world by 48 hours.

* * *

The "Maine Stein Song" is notably absent in the Vastine Band "College Song" concert at 8 on KDKA.

* * *

TEN BEST STORIES

John B. Kennedy said it plenty last night in the Radio Hour:

"The pessimist's batting average in these days of depression is much better the less he bats."

* * *

"Working for something as hard as we wish for it is one way to eliminate the vanity of wishing."

* * *

Jackson S. Elliott, assistant manager of the Associated Press, selected these news stories as the "Ten Best" for 1930:

First, Discovery of the ninth planet; second, the Columbus, Ohio, Prison Fire; third, Carol's Return to the Roumanian Throne; fourth, Bobby Jones' Golf Triumphs; fifth, the Summer Drought with its Immense Toll;

Sixth, the Coste-Bellonte Paris to New York Flight; seventh, Discovery of the Remains of Major Andre near the North Pole; eighth, the Santo Domingo Hurricane; ninth, Explosion of the R-101 over France; tenth, the Belgian Mystery Poison Fog.

* * *

QUESTION A DAY:

Answer—No, John rarely appears before the microphone. You probably heard his brother, James, also a tenor, who sings frequently at WTIC, Hartford, Conn.

* * *

"BY THE WAY——"

That reminds us of Glenn Riggs staring Saturday at a "Happy New Year" card he received from "Mrs. and Mrs. Glenn Riggs" of Cheboygan, Mich . . . only Glenn's not married—yet . . . Believe us, that Tom Noonan feature over KQV every Sunday at 3:30 furnishes plenty of competition for the big networks . . . It's right to the heart "from 5 and 7 Doyers Street in New York's Chinatown" . . . and there's no way of measuring the happiness Tom radiates . . . Yesterday his "choir" sang for Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Heberling, of Bakerstown, Pa. . . . Presentation of Norman Pearce, the bachelor-poet, was a welcome surprise . . . "Bugs" Baer says he doesn't like "mezzanine sopranos" on the air particularly when they sing Tosti's "Goodbye" . . . It's so long, Bugs says he doubts that Tosti ever did say "Goodbye" and is probably still hanging around . . . Premier Mussolini's talk comes to Pittsburgh via KDKA on New Year's Day at 2 o'clock . . . Back again, Al Clark at KQV and Dick Liebert, the marcelled blonde organist over WJAS at 9 tomorrow morning and 8:30 Thursday . . . With "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here" as a theme song, the Inmates Band of 20 pieces is to broadcast from the Warden's office of The Tombs, historic New York prison, at 2:30 on New Year's Day via WEAF-WCAE . . . Elsie Ferguson and Otis Skinner are to present Milne's one act play, "The Camberley Triangle" over WEAF-WCAE Sunday night, Jan. 11, at 7:30 in a new series of special radio dramas . . . and WJAS brings us a 22-minute recital of Big Ben in London on New Year's Eve at 6:58 . . . Gene and Glenn, alias Jake and Lena, didn't make us quake with laughter this morning but when they fet going they'll be hard to beat . . . we hope they'll eliminate the snoring part which takes up too much time . . . hear them every morning over WCAE at 8.

* * *

TODAY'S TID BIT—

Edna Wallace Hopper and Hiram Johnson are running Floyd Gibbons a race for the salesman's toga . . . each firing better than 200 words a minute, and no blanks.

New Year's at Mrs. Jones
Always an original hostess, Mrs. Jones has borrowed a Chinese idea for her last 1930 party. She calls it a "pay-your-debts" party and the guests are requested to appear in Chinese costume as a tribute to the nation which so punctiliously follows the rule of paying all personal debts on New Year's Day.

HOLLYWOOD AND GOTHAM GOSSIP WITH LOCAL STAGE TIDINGS

Crook Stories Continue In Vogue in Spite Of Burlesque

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1930, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 29.

Though some of the studios already are burlesquing them, crook stories still have their vogue.

Bert Lytell will make one, which carries the title "Re-generation." The Tiffany studio, where Lytell has just made "The Single Sin," is the sponsor of the production.

Bert Lytell

It seems that Fox made a silent version of this film back in 1915. They adapted it from "Welcome Burke."

Bert Lytell is another player who may manage a comeback due to the talkies. His voice is one of the most interesting in the film colony.

UNDER A FALSE IMPRESSION

"You know," said a friend, presenting a gift to El Brendel, "it isn't the gift that counts but the thought behind it."

"Yes," said El, "but I thought you were going to give me something else."

LATEST GOSSIP

Gary Cooper has just bought a canary-yellow phaeton with pale green fenders and upholstery . . . Howard Higgin, the Pathe director who was injured by a premature explosion of dynamite, had the cast taken off his leg on Friday. The limb was broken in 30 places between the knee and the foot . . . Carey Wilson boasts that he is the first scenarist to get writers cramp. While recuperating from an illness he wrote a play in long-hand. His finger swelled and the doctor pronounced it writer's cramp . . . A certain Hollywood auto salesman is enjoying a Merry Christmas. Clara Bow traded her phaeton for an $18,000 [illegible] Rex Bell. Clara's boy friend, then traded his roadster in on Clara's former phaeton. Finally, Clara's cook traded her car in on Rex's roadster. Three commissions from one deal. Pretty swell!

BRINGS RELATIVES

According to a letter received here, Estelle Taylor is bringing her mother and grandmother home from the East. Estelle was brought up chiefly by her grandparents. She recently made a hurried trip to her grandfather's bedside, but arrived too late. The party is expected shortly after the holidays.

Estelle Taylor

CONTINUES SUCCESS

Marjorie Rambeau's roles are coming in quick succession at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

One hears that she will have a party in "Strangers May Kiss," the next Norma Shearer picture.

Another player set for this film is Robert Montgomery, who'll do a sophisticated comedy role.

I understand there is a second important masculine part, and that Neil Hamilton is being tested for it.

Legion Sponsors Membership Drive

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—An "Ed McGrail Membership Period" will be observed by the West Virginia department, American Legion, from January 1 to 15, State Commander L. A. Johnson said here. McGrail, who is chairman of the Legion membership committee and editor of the Parkersburg News, is ill at the Walter Reed Hospital, Washington. Reports on the January membership drive will be made directly to McGrail at the hospital.

Magic

Jane Thurston is assistant to her father, Thurston, the Magician, who brings his show of tricks and illusions to the Alvin next week.

Alights from Auto, Killed by Another

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 29.—Within a few seconds after he had alighted from a friend's car at the Eclipse works of the Atlantic Refining Company, Adolph Bahr, 52, of Bleakley Hill, stepped directly into the path of the automobile driven by Mrs. Myrtle Fisher, of Shippenville, sustaining injuries from which he died an hour later.

RAH, RAH, GANGSTERS HAVE LITTLE WAR IN THE HARRIS

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Rah, rah, rah—the gangsters are collegiate now over on the Harris screen in a talkie titled "See America Thirst." They cheer and they sing for their good old alma mariket.

The picture is a burlesque on underworld drama. It has the comics, Harry Langdon and Slim Summerville, mixed up in a gang war. They run about the city streets spraying tear gas on the big badmen. And thus they win the war. Bust they don't get the heroine, Bessie Love. She goes into the arms of another fellow at the finale.

It is goofy, laughable entertainment. It could have been a lot better. And it could be a lot worse.

20th Century Club To Present Playlet

The Williams College dramatic organization, "Cap and Bell," will bring to the Twentieth Century Club, Bayard street, tonight, Christopher Morley's revival of an old melodrama, "The Blue and the Gray," or, "War is Hell." F. G. Hulse will play the role of Gen. Sherman, and John Lucas the lead—dashing young Harry Estes. A dance will follow the presentation.

Sleuths Shovel Coal In Still Hunt; Fail

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 29.—Police officers, making a raid at Crucible shoveled more than 50 bushels of coal away from a trapdoor in attempting to locate a still, but instead found only two quarts of moonshine.

Ohio Feed Store Robbed of $250

SHARON, Pa., Dec. 29.—The J. B. Roux feed store at Burghill, O., was broken into and $250 stolen from the safe, making the second robbery in the chain of stores operated by the Farrell merchant in the past two weeks.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

(But which you knew all along!)

That if you want to know the character of a girl first ask her the month in which she was born. If she was born in Jan'y, she will be prudent, given to melancholy, but good-tempered. Except on Tuesdays.

If she was born in Feb'y, she will be a humane and affectionate wife and a good mother, but her petticoats will show.

If she was born in March, you safely wager that she is a frivolous chatterbox, given to quarreling, and drinks it straight.

If in April, then she is inconstant, not intelligent, but likely to be good-looking. She will flirt over your shoulder, though.

If in May, she probably will be handsome, and likely to marry happily, but she won't scratch your back when it itches most.

If she was born in June, she is frivolous, impetuous and will marry early, but she wears heavy underwear in winter.

If she is a July baby, she is given to sulking, and will marry three times, twice in Newark, and once legally.

If she is born in August, she is amiable and practical, and likely to marry rich. Her children will have loads of hair on their arms.

If she is a September child, then she is discreet, affable and popular, and will pet.

An October-born girl is usually pretty and coquettish, and likely to be miserable. She will "go for" actors, mainly. And she is apt to drink like a fellow who never picks up the check.

If she was born in November, then she is liberal, kind, of a mild disposition, and she will let her stockings wrinkle. If her stockings never wrinkle, then she is the type who writes people for autographs.

If she is a December baby, she will be fully developed young, extravagant, fond of novelty, and risque shows. She is easily bored, but always has the change of a $100 bill.

Look out for the fellow who tells you he was born in January. He rarely is—he just likes to be a big shot, the dope.

Girls, if you want to size up a chap, ask him if he was born in February. If he says yeah, I was, then marry him. Because a feller born in February never asks questions when you stay out late, such as "Where have you been all night?" or "Do I smell liquor on your breath?"

If he was a March-born boy, then he will have pimples between the age of 17 and 23. He will believe in all the ads about how to remove the blemishes, and he will sing tenor.

The April-born fellow will be cynical, and hard to two-time. April boys are such doublecrossers, they think everybody is. They usually write the better Broadway columns, though.

A May male child cries easily, and will wear the same shirt two days. And he gargles boisterously when mouth-washing.

Girls, you will probably thank me for warning you about the July born man. He not only wants to grow a mustache that droops, but usually winds up becoming a proofreader, who doesn't know how, yet!

Then there is the August guy. He is invariably handsome, and wears knitted ties. He likes his children named Ethelinda, if they are girls, and if they aren't then he calls them Karyl or Jean, etc.

September-born fellers are pretty good, at that, or at almost anything. They expect you to be true to them, however, so maybe I shouldn't have mentioned the type. And besides, they look comical in a top-hat.

You probably will love an October-born chap longer than any other. He tans easily, spends liberally, likes ringside tables in night clubs, and can always dig up two co-makers for a note.

The November-born fellow is also worth while considering, for he is he-manish as a rule, and likes to sleep until noon.

But I am warning you, my dears, against any man who is born in December. He leaves burning cigarets all over the place, the burning ciggie paper making the sort of smoke that chokes you or blinds you; he always asks night club managers to remove the couvert charge which is embarrassing; before he is 35 his hair gets thin; he doesn't believe in sending Christmas cards, and crinkles paper candy bags in theaters!

And I almost forgot to add that the March-born chap is the type, who while courting you, clips poetry from newspaper columns, copies it down on his own stationery, and sends it to you under his own name.

And among other things I never knew till I had to sit down and dig up a column so it would make the last air mail from Miami Beach was that the statue is not "Venus de Milo," but "de Melo."

Because it was discovered in 1820 on the Island of Melos.

That the hoosegow wagon was called "The Black Maria" in honor of a negress named Maria Lee, who ran a sailor's boarding house in Boston durihg colonial days. She was tough and strong and helped the police arrest troublesome people. "Call Black Maria" meant "Arrest that person!"

And that I've been informed that while on the radio the other night, Sue Carol said: "Walter Winchell, all the way from Miami, sends his best wishes to you all." Which I didn't, because I never wish anybody any good wishes. Although there are many people I wish a lotta things."

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Resolutions urging that Congress restore the right to Porto Rico to establish its own liquor regulations were passed by the Porto Rican Agricultural Association at its annual convention here today. # WILSON LAUDED BY BAKER

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(INS.)—If Woodrow Wilson were alive today he would be preaching International nationalism not only as a cure for war but for the world's economic ills and he would be searching for enduring cures for unemployment, so declared Newton D. Baker, Wilson's secretary of war, at the annual birthday dinner of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation last night.

Baker, in discussing what the late president would have done to meet today's problems, said Wilson would not have spent "millions for surplus wheat" nor permitted passage of a tariff bill which, Baker said, emphasized the world's distress.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Has Girl With 'Past' Right To Live in Present?

Should Della tell the wretched secret of her past—

Will she be taking a wicked advantage of the boy who loves her and wants to marry her, if she doesn't?

Or has she a right to let the dead past bury its dead?

Read her pitiful story, and send in your vote.

What would you have her do, Bill, Tom, Peter, if you loved her. Tell you...or keep silent?

"Dear Sally—

"I am in a terrible dilemma, and I don't know what to do. You have given so much good advice to other people who were in sad trouble that I am coming to you. Maybe you can tell me what's right.

Father Didn't Care

"My mother died when I was only 14, and my father was one of those men who don't care anything about their children. So I was left on my own resources . . . and what a terrible mess I made of my life before I woke up. . . .

"At 18, I became a man's mistress. I was so ignorant, Sally! I didn't realize until I had done it, just what that meant. And he was so much older than I that he just seemed to have an influence over me that I couldn't resist. He was supposed to be a "friend of the family" and that's how he proved it! What brutes some men are!

"Well, I stood it as long as I could. So I ran away . . . as far away as I could get on the money I had saved. And when I got there I got a job and went to work. That wasn't so easy, and I had to do without a lot of things that I was used to. But I was independent, and living on the square, and that kept me going.

"Then to mix matters hopelessly, I fell in love. Really and truly in love! I met a young man, and he just seemed to be the one. Honestly, he means more to me than anything I've ever known . . . except my mother. I worship him. He is just four days older than I am.

Lost Courage

"I have been going with him for two months now, and we get along wonderfully well. About a week ago, he asked me to marry him, and I said yes. I was so happy! My life has been so empty since my mother died, and he filled it to overflowing.

"But now I've just about lost my courage. Must I tell him about that dreadful mistake I made? I'm afraid that if I do, I'll lose him. He'll think I'm no good, and will stop loving me. But, honestly, I'm such a different girl now from what I was even a short year ago, and I know that I could make him happy.

"But I want to be honest. I don't want to begin life together with secrets behind me. And then, too, if he should find out after we were married, it would be awful. He said something to me the other night that made me write this to you. He said, 'I don't believe everything people say. What I want to know, I find out for myself.' And since then I've been frightened. Torn as if I were in a storm at sea, pulled this way and that.

"Shall I tell him, now, and take a chance on losing my happiness? If I don't, I'm afraid there won't be much peace in my mind. But I can't bear the thought of losing him, either. He is so good and dear, and is so sweet to me. And he does seem to have an understanding heart.

"Won't you please help me, and tell me what you think is right for me to do? Will I be cheating him if I don't tell?

"DELLA."

What I think is right may not be right for you, little girl. There is no set rule of right or wrong in a case like this. Each heart must make its own law—according to its own nature.

If you feel that your past, with all its misery, belongs to you and to you alone—

If you feel that since you paid the price, you alone have the right to judge—

If you feel that no one human being is appointed or able to judge another's sin—not even the dearest of lovers—

Personal Views

If, above all, you feel that it is actually unfair to burden him with a misery which he didn't seek and can't judge—

Then don't tell.

Put the past behind you. Go to him as you are now, with your dearly bought wisdom and your cleansed and strengthened soul, and be a loyal and loving wife. That's what I would do. For, after all, you've bought yourself free from your past. You left the sin into which you had drifted as an ignorant child, and you made a fine woman of yourself . . . I think you have a right to live in your splendid present—not in that sordid past. And, since he probably hasn't been perfect either, I'd have no regrets in offering myself, as is—if I were you.

But, as I said before, I can't tell you what's right for you. If your past would haunt you . . . If you would feel like a cheat if you didn't reveal it . . . then tell him. Because your sense of guilt would ruin your marriage, just as surely as any real dishonesty would.

That's my answer to Della.

What yours, stranger?

Was Della's problem ever yours? If so, what did you do, about it?

And what would you want her to do, if you were the man who loved her?

Sometimes Most Popular Person Makes Unhappy Marriage, Says Fay King

YOU'RE A WONDERFUL BOY, BUT I'M NOT THINKING OF MARRYING ANY ONE JUST YET!
ALL MY FRIENDS ARE GETTING MARRIED, I'M GOING TO GET MARRIED TOO!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

This surprises their friends, who know of more worthy ones they could have married.

The only accounting for this is that when they could have married the right ones they were not in the mood for marriage. When they were in the mood for marriage the wrong ones got them.

When one does not wish to get married it does not matter how ideal the girl or man they know may be for a wife or husband they will not marry.

And when one is in the mood for marriage they are apt to marry anyone on the spur of the moment, since they are thinking more of getting married than of whom they are marrying.

Spiriting Noel Away Proves Exciting Adventure for Madge

Noel and I stood on no ceremony as Dicky adjured us to "beat it" before the car which he thought was Philip Veritzen's should reach the farmhouse. The young violinist held out his hand to me as simply as if he were a child and I his nurse, and we hurried silently along the path which led to the barn. The chicken runs and a part of the orchard were between us and the driveway, which, indeed, was on the other side of the farmhouse, so I was not afraid of our figures being picked out by even the exceedingly strong lights of the approaching car.

"It's turning in at the gate, isn't it?" Noel whispered a second or two after we had left the farmhouse door.

I turned my head as I ran, and saw that the lights of the big car were picking out the apple trees upon the other side of the house. If our path had lain that way, we could have had no hope of remaining hidden.

"Yes," I said, laconically, "but we are safely away."

"Are we?" Noel asked, and at the simple query I started, wondering if indeed we were as well out of the woods as we thought.

"Father's awfully keen—and deep," Noel said. "And he never takes anything for granted. He probably has given Otto instructions to prowl around and find out whether another car has come in here tonight. What's that?"

He had been speaking in a whisper, but the last two words were an ejaculation which sounded terrifyingly loud, but which I realized, an instant later, could not possibly have been heard at the house.

"Nobody but me," Jim's voice replied, and the sturdy figure of faithful man-of-all-work stepped out of the barn doorway. "How are ye, Mis' Graham? Mis' Bickert, she got me up awhile ago and told me to stay around out here and see that nobody came prowling around. Then Mr. Underwood had me sweep all over the driveway where your car turned in, so nobody could tell that you'd been here. Then he said to stand here and watch for you, and find out if you wanted anything. I just spoke to Mr. Graham, and he told me the same thing. Was there anything you wanted?"

"Yes," I said, breathlessly, in the same low tones Jim had been using. "Go down toward the road now, and see that Otto, Mr. Veritzen's chauffeur, doesn't come spying around back here. Make believe at first you don't know who he is. Then, when you do, you can make some excuse to keep him out in front until we've had a chance to get away."

"I'll hold him if I have to sit on his head," Jim said simply.

"You won't have to use force, I'm sure. He won't attempt to come back if he knows you're watching for him. Goodby."

We hurried on, Noel, despite his illness, setting a pace which taxed my strength to meet. I was glad when we came up to the Underwood car, and saw Mr. Underwood standing beside it, looking toward the farmhouse.

"Hello, Noel! Glad to see you." He greeted the youth as casually as if we were starting upon the most ordinary pleasure drive. "I see your father has arrived. Where's the Dicky-bird, Lady Fair?"

I gave him Dicky's message, and he was silent for a little.

"Not so hot," he said at last, "but I guess it's the only thing to do after all. Hop in, you two, into the back seat. When the Lady Fair gets through giving you the low down on all this, Noel—I don't believe you've had time to get it all yet, you can each curl up in a corner and go to sleep. There are plenty of pillows and blankets, I believe. I'll hold the front seat for the Dicky bird."

"Sleep!" Noel ejaculated. "I don't believe I'll be able to sleep for a week."

"A week's a long time, son," the older man returned, good-naturedly. "But that isn't the question before the house just now. Please get into the car, both of you. We probably will want to make a hurry-up start, and you'd better get settled, so you won't get bruised with the car lurching. This isn't a boulevard that we're traveling on next, you know."

Indeed, I did know, the narrow, stony, winding, woods road down which we were scheduled to travel for the next three miles. But I gave no hint of my knowledge to Noel as I hastily climbed into the car and divided the blankets and pillows with him.

"Shall I tell him about it now, or wait?" I asked Mr. Underwood.

"Go ahead, until you are interrupted," he said, genially. "Keep your voices down, and I'll tell you to stop if it's necessary."

But I had not had time to begin the recital, which I knew Noel was eagerly awaiting, when we heard masculine voices raised in altercation down by the farmhouse.

"That's not the Dick-bird's chirp," Mr. Underwood said, leaning forward and listening intently, "nor yet Veritzen's, nor your father's. There's a guttural note—that will be Otto, and the other one must be Jim. Now where, in the hinges of hades, is the Dicky-bird?"

His voice had not yet trailed away into silence before there came to our ears from the distant bushes the notes of a whipporwill's call.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, December 30

A very propitious state of affairs is the augury based upon the trine aspect of the luminaries, assisted by the propitious launching of new enterprises by the lunar trine to Neptune. Advancement and strengthened position may be the rule of the day, attained by cleverness and secret agreement, or with secret combines or organizations. It is a time for pushing to high phases.

Those whose birthday it is are at the door of a year of much achievement and advancement, either in employment or in the good graces of secret societies, combines or mergers, or through avenues of subtle agreement or diplomacy. It is a time for pushing to cherished places.

A child born on this day should attain prominent places in employment or with large corporations, secret societies or in the realms of conspiracy or diplomacy. It may have a very interesting career in the public eye, with much personal prestige through unique talents.

Household Hints

Read your recipe, then get out all the ingredients required and necessary cooking and mixing utensils. Then combine your materials and you will find the work accomplished in much less time than when done in a hit or miss manner.

The color of cheese is not the thing to go by, as rich yellow may have been induced by coal tar or other coloring matter. Judge rather by its texture. Good cheese is reasonably solid, not too greasy and cuts grainy rather than waxy.

Save all leftover pieces of wallpaper for patches in case of accident. When the room is newly papered we do not think of patches, but many times a patch of paper will save having the entire room or ceiling done over.

How many times have you been served ragged-edged sandwiches? Probably the whole trouble was a dull bread knife. This is one of the most important utensils in the kitchen and the one most easily overlooked.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Lettuce As Served at a Banquet

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly tell me how to proceed at a banquet held in a hotel? Are the courses eaten as they are served to you? Will say, first, a fruit cocktail, followed by soup, then half a head of lettuce and so forth? Eating the lettuce this way is so dirty and seems kind out of place.

L. T.

Often, to make the serving at a banquet easier, the lettuce is put on the table at the places, with the supposition that we wait to eat it when the main course is served. It isn't the ideal service, by any means, far from it, but it is a convenience to the waiters! And I agree with you that eating the lettuce alone, after the soup, isn't very interesting.

In the usual and best service the lettuce is served after the main course, and before the dessert, as a course by itself, and accompanied with some interesting kind of biscuit or cracker, and with cheese or a choice of cheeses.

When it is served as you say, in hotel-banquet form or service, it is best to "save" it for the roast course.

An Invitation Unnecessary

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be graduated from high school in the spring. A and B are graduating with me. A's mother is a good friend of mine and is my Sunday School teacher, and B's mother is also a good friend. Since these boys are graduating also, would it be correct for me to send invitations to their parents?

MARIE.

This would not be necessary, and, under the circumstances, it would seem out of place for you to send invitations to an occasion to which the boys have a prior right of giving the invitation.

An Embarrassing Gesture

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Will you please let me know if it is correct for a woman to hold a man's hat in church or the theater?

2. Should a woman remove her gloves in church?

A READER

1. No. And no "manly man" wishes to have a woman do this. As a matter of fact, he is, or should be, embarrassed, if she does do this.

2. No.

By HELEN FOLLETT

Complexion powders remain dark of tone. Little Pale-face is entirely out of the modern picture. Health and the appearance of health are fashionable. Pallor is often due to malnutrition or fatigue.

A light coating of vaseline placed on the eyelashes and the eyelids give a mirror-like glitter to the eyes. Try it sometime. It is a first-class tonic for winkers, which are short-lived and so lightly anchored that a hard rubbing of the eyelids will pull them out by the roots.

The girl who smears her lips with uneven coloring can improve her technique by outlining the borders of the lips with an orange woodstick covered with cotton and dipped into the counterfeit health hue. It is easy enough to fill in the spaces. Inner surfaces of the lips need a faint application. Otherwise there will be a deadline.

If you are blessed with blonde hair make the most of it. There is a definite reason for the traditional phrase, "fluffy blonde." Blonde beauties of other days, discovered that if they permitted their goldilocks freedom, lights would play through the strands and give their tresses added glory. If it is smoothed out and brushed down plain, blonde hair is apt to have an unattractive dead look. Now that femininism is in fashion is an opportune time for blonde heads to adopt soft, loose coiffures.

Never exercise beyond the point of fatigue. That seems like an unnecessary warning, since the average woman hates exercise unless she is playing some interesting game. Plumpies, working to cast off the too-ponderous flesh, do themselves harm by over-effort.

There are sensitive nerves at the finger tips, which fact accounts for nail biting and twiddling of fingers. The best way to curb nail nibbling is to have the little pink shells manicured frequently and to keep them clear of hangnails and rough edges. When the chewing frenzy comes on, soak the hands in warm water.

Cosmetic surgeons remove scars when they are not too deep. A new wound is made, the [illegible] made to conform, to change [illegible] closer to the head. Remodeling noses is being done all the time. Strange to say, as many men as women appeal to the cosmetic surgeon for help along the beauty way.

Without good circulation and a scalp that is fairly soft and cushiony, the glorious crown hasn't much of a chance to gloss and thicken. It is like a garden growing in poor soil. While giving a scalp massage have the fingers cold; chill them on a piece of ice as the good work goes on. A hot oil application the night before the shampoo is worth while.

'ROOMS' URGED IN N. Y. PRISONS

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 29.—A number of far-reaching recommendations to improve prison administration in the state, including construction of a new "medium security" prison, where convicts of a special type would occupy rooms rather than cells, were made public today.

They are made by the commission appointed by the last legislature for a study of the prison problem, in a preliminary report to Gov. Roosevelt.

The program of the commission contemplates expenditures of $10,505,425 in 1931. The commission asserts it "feels confident the overcrowding will be remedied and the probable new demands for additional accommodations satisfied, up to 1940."

'Harding' Dropped As Name by School

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., Dec. 29.—The Harding High School, erected in 1925 and named in honor of the late President Harding, has been changed to Aliquippa high school, by vote of the school board. Members of the board gave as the reason that the borough was entitled to the publicity which accrued from high school activities and that use of the name Harding deprived the community of that benefit.

ESCAPED KILLER CAPTURED

TROY, N. Y., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Charles Fithian, 22, who escaped from the Salem, N. J., County Jail last Monday night several hours after he had been sentenced to die in the electric chair for the slaying of a paymaster during a holdup, was captured here yesterday.

Fithian, who is held for extradition to New Jersey, was captured in a rooming house by five officers without a struggle.

Although the New Jersey police believed that a girl who had visited him in the Salem jail shortly before the escape had aided him in his flight, Fithian was alone when captured.

POLITICS SEEN FOR LEGION

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Gen. Charles P. Summerall, retired chief of staff of the United States Army, said he believed that sooner or later the American Legion would have to take a hand in politics, "as pertains to national problems," despite the fact it has "steadfastly refused to be led astray into partisan politics or be lured by false rewards."

Gen. Summerall was in Tampa for a ceremony welcoming him home to Florida. He was appointed to West Point more than 40 years ago from the first Florida district.

He said he saw the American Legion "As the dominating influence in the country today in checking the spread of propaganda antagonistic to American ideals."

Man Thrown Free As Train Hits Auto

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., Dec. 29.—Allen Shaffer, Renovo, an employe of the J. K. Mosser tannery at Gleasonton, narrowly escaped death when the automobile in which he was riding to his home was struck by a fast freight at Farrell. The automobile was thrown 20 feet. ## Baseball Star Held In Assault Charge

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Earl O. (Dick) Whitehill, Detroit Tiger baseball star, is at liberty today on $100 bond following his arrest here on an assault and battery charge. L. E. Sears, of Cedar Rapids, charged that the baseball player struck his wife and attacked him during an argument following a collision between their automobiles. Whitehill denied the charge, saying:

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Your Ambition Can Be Stifled by Aching Feet

If a person is to be happy he must have foot health. As a matter of fact the feet play a large part in the welfare. Unhealthy conditions of the feet can upset the entire nervous system, and cause all sorts of physical disabilities.

DR. COPELAND

Probably no foot ailment is more common, particularly among women, than bunions They are troublesome and deforming.

These are due to enlargement of the sac covering the joint which is formed by the lower bone of the large toe and the head of the connecting bone of the top of the foot. They sometimes form on other joints of the foot.

The present-day tendency of women to wear extremely pointed-toe shoes with an equally extremely high heel, has its disadvantages. Many times the shoe is too short. The toes cannot possibly follow the straight line of the foot, which is the right position for the toes. Instead the great toe is pressed inwardly This causes the joint sac to become irritated and inflamed. The result is a deformity of the foot which is both painful and unsightly.

If the trouble is taken quickly and a correct, shaped shoe is worn, the toe will resume its natural position. But when the deformity becomes excessive it becomes necessary in many cases to resort to an operation.

However if the trouble is not beyond local treatment a great deal of comfort may be had by the use of felt bunion-plasters. These protect the foot against pressure from the shoe. If there is great irritation of the joint it is well to apply iodine, ichthyol or some other soothing liniment. When there is excessive inflammation of the joint, the only one who can help you will be a competent foot specialist, a pedestrian, or doctor.

A correctly fitting shoe has a tendency to make the wearer stand and walk correctly. The weight falls on the heel and on the ball of the foot, with the toes pointing straight ahead not pointing out.

A shoe should fit snugly around the portion of the foot just back of the heel, as well as the part just back of the ball of the foot or waist of the foot. The shoe must be wide enough to accommodate the toes without too much squeezing. If there is a weak arch it is well to have a more rigid shank than the usual pliable arch provides. This will prevent undue strain of the muscles.

Many a backache has come from wearing the wrong shoes. Your efficiency, ability and ambition can be stifled by aching feet. Why have them?

Buy comfortable shoes. Shoes can be had that combine comfort and good looks. They make for good foot health and stronger nerves, and greater efficiency.

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Pfare

Every time James Daugherty who is possibly the dean of local orchestra leaders, drives through a city park, he is reminded of something.

Mr. Daugherty, who started Danny Nirella and John Nemenkoff, among others, in the baton business, was one of the first leaders of bands which furnished music in the city parks.

One night, many years ago, Mr. Daugherty was late. The musicians were in their places, restless and uniformed as to the program.

William Pfare

Eventually Mr. Daugherty tore himself away from his friends, rushed to the park, grabbed his baton and beckoned his musicians to play.

The discord was terrific. The men were confused. Mr. Daugherty forgot his good humor, hurled aside his baton, and stepped from the platform, shouting to his aides:

"Fight it out among yourselves."

We hear too many stories or legends of people winning fabulous sums on the numbers lotteries. In contrast, there is a report on Leon Bernard and his barbers. The two favorite numbers of the barbers have been 506 and 104 because they are part of the street address and the telephone number. For more than a year the barbers have been playing them. Last week, for some reason or other, they all abandoned these two numbers. And last week both numbers hit.

In a downtown restaurant a few days ago, three men who had been complaining of the service for several days won hearty revenge.

After they had given their orders they produced a deck of cards and played rum—for 20 minutes.

Since we told about the South Hills lady of the house who has found luck at poker by touching the hair of her colored maid, we've found out about another maid who was lackadaisical about her work, especially the ironing. But her mistress has solved the problem. On ironing day she and the maid each have a drink on the house, so to speak, and the mistress hands the maid a big cigar. The maid lights the cigar and goes about her ironing with a contented heart. The ironing is improved.

An attractive, red-haired woman (neither of those advantages has anything to do with the story) packed her husband's traveling bag last week and he went away on a trip. She forgot to pack his comb and brush, and the next morning she was surprised and puzzled to receive this not too obvious telegram from him:

"THOUGHT YOU WOULD LIKE TO HEAR OF FUNNY OLD-TIMER I SAW IN PULLMAN THIS MORNING STOP HE WAS USING BRUSH COMB ON HAIR STOP I NEARLY DIED LAUGHING AS I HURRIEDLY PARTED MY HAIR WITH FINGERS STOP REGARDS TO KIDDIES."

Mention radio to Henry Baldwin, of Beechview, and Mr. Baldwin will look at you with voluntary manslaughter in his eyes. Mr. Baldwin, reading "All Quiet on the Western Front," was wrapped up in the rumbling roar of shell-fire, the deathly rattle of the machine gun and the consternation created by scattering bombs one night when the radio set suddenly gave vent to an ear-splitting dose of static. He hasn't been the same since.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 29.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

See a lot in the papers about the split in the Republican party over Norris. The Republicans and the Democrats parties both split, the Republicans have their splits right after elections, and Democrats have theirs just before an election. Got a lot of wires from big and little firms saying they took the suggestion and told their people "they were not to be fired," and they all wrote how pleased their help was. Now New Year's is just as good a time to do so as Christmas, so if you haven't told 'em, do so. And everything will pick up and they will even work better.

Will Rogers

Yours, WILL.

MANY SUBMIT RESOLUTIONS IN CONTEST

All Parts of Pittsburgh Send in Proposals to Better World During '31

New Year's resolutions are pouring in from all parts of the Pittsburgh district in the Sun-Telegraph's contest seeking an idea which will best promote the welfare of the entire world.

The field covered by such a resolution is wide, but the idea should be practical and possible of accomplishment. It should set forth some vital benefit which might be given to humanity by the people of Pittsburgh.

The best idea will win $100 and there are a number of other cash prizes. The resolution should be written plainly in 50 words or less and mailed to the Resolutions Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, so that it will reach him before 5 p. m., December 30. Names of the winners and their resolutions will be published December 31.

Judges in the contest are: The Rev. Dr. James F. Carroll, vice president of Duquesne University; Ralph Munn, director of Carnegie Libraries, and Marcus Aaron, president of the Board of Public Education.

EXTORTIONISTS ESCAPE TRAP

A plot to extort $5,000 from Simon Zitelli, proprietor of a barber shop and beauty parlor in Brookline boulevard, was revealed by police today after a unsuccessful attempt to trap the writers.

Panther Hollow Bridge in Schenley Park, where the money was to be placed, was watched by police for three days, but the extortionists failed to appear. Zitelli's shop also was guarded.

Jobless Man Held On Larceny Charge

Two Admit Larceny, Given Prison Terms

After pleading guilty to six charges of larceny, Enoch Miller, 25, of Robinson street, was sentenced five to 10 years in the penitentiary and Andrew Wiggins, 28, of Cedar avenue and Avery street, was sentenced from one to five years in the workhouse today by Judge George V. Moore.

The Ross Township commissioners have fixed January 26 for a hearing on a petition to change from residential to commercial classification property formerly known as the Ivory holdings and fronting on both sides of the Babcock boulevard, near the old Evergreen road. The meeting will be held in the Samuel Hamilton School.

ARSON HINTED IN FIFTH AVE. BLAZE

Gasoline-Soaked Cartons Indicate Plot, Firemen Report; Stores Damaged

Police today continued their investigation of a fire early yesterday in a building at 906 Fifth avenue.

Arson was hinted by firemen when a partly burned half-gallon paper container, one partly burned quart paper container and a pile of rags, all said to have been saturated with gasoline, were found beneath the second floor of the building.

$2,000 LOSS

The fire caused damage estimated by Deputy Chief Louis Conley at $2,000. Damage to the Bortz Cloak Company, on the first floor, and to J. Levin and Son, at 908 Fifth avenue, was most severe, he said. The blaze broke out under the second floor of 906 Fifth avenue, occupied by the Radio Service System.

Fire of undetermined origin yesterday destroyed the two-story frame residence of Steve Fritch, on the Tarentum road, near Russelton. The family had come to Pittsburgh to visit a daughter, Veronica, a patient in a hospital here. Firemen estimated the damage at $8,000.

MIFFLIN HOME BURNED

While members of the family of Nicholas Bost, of the Ball plan, Mifflin Township, were away, flames destroyed their two-story frame dwelling. Loss was estimated at $9,000 by firemen.

Damage estimated at $2,000 was caused by fire in the home of E. F. Cushing, of 1711 Brinton avenue, North Braddock. Firemen said they believed the blaze was due to a defective flue.

Employes Avert Standard Oil Fire

COUNCIL NEARS END OF BUDGET

The Finance Committee of City Council, scheduled to resume its deliberations on the municipal budget of 1931, expects to clear up the work by Wednesday. Under normal procedure the bill, as prepared by the committee, would come up for action by Council next Monday. It is possible that if the committee finishes its work tomorrow, as some members hope, Council may hold a special meeting late in the week to expedite passage.

The Finance Committee, under the direction of Chairman W. Y. English, has been working on the budget two weeks.

Mt. Lebanon Pair Married 50 Years

Mr. and Mrs. John Brautigam of Ashland avenue, Mt. Lebanon, will observe their golden wedding anniversary tomorrow. Eight sons and two daughters will join with them in celebrating the 50 years of married life. Brautigam is 74 years old and his wife, Mrs. Agnes Brautigam is 69.

Bank Will Install Tear Gas System

Prompted by the wave of banditry and bank robberies in this district, the Citizens Trust Company, Bellevue, has let a contract for installation of a tear gas protection system. The gas may be released by pressing a button from any one of 20 places in the bank.

ARTIST REGAINS TOUCH AT 89

In 1840, the days of "Tippecanoe and Tyler, too," the days of Webster, Clay, Calhoun, of slavery and abolition, days before the founding of Pittsburgh's great industrial empire, a girl was born in an 11-year-old farmhouse not far from the banks of the Ohio. The child was Agnes Way.

As the Civil War began, Agnes Way commenced to draw, to study, to paint. She traveled to Paris, on the proceeds of her teaching. Her health grew stronger, lagging behind her skill as an artist.

And again in 1904, a still life of a handful of rhododendrons hung in the third International, signed by Agnes Way.

Two years ago, Agnes Way, 87, was told she could no longer paint with the old touch. Defiantly, she undertook the task of recapturing her art, of continuing her household duties, while she grew old gracefully.

Millvale Church Marks 70 Years

Special services marked the seventieth anniversary of St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Millvale, yesterday. The Rev. Dr. Henry H. Bagger, president of the Pittsburgh Synod of the church, conducted the special services yesterday morning. The church was established before the Civil War. The Rev. Frederick C. Frommhagen has been pastor eight years.

NET WIDENS FOR CHILD'S ASSAILANT

Victim at Home Recovering From Exposure and Shock As Officers Extend Search

State highway police, county detectives and Leetsdale authorities today extended their search to Pittsburgh for the kidnaper of a 9-year-old Leetsdale girl.

The child, Mary Cicconi, is recovering at her home today after an 18-hour absence, in which she was kidnaped and left in an abandoned sedan on the Darlington road, about five miles from Beaver Falls.

She was found in the car by Theodore and Ralph Moore, who were delivering milk to the home of H. C. Krause. She was weak from exposure and shock, and was taken to the Providence Hospital at Beaver Falls by Corp. Harry Frazier, of the State Highway Patrol, who was summoned to the scene.

TRACE LICENSE TAGS

State police are endeavoring to check the license number of the 1931 tags found on the abandoned car.

The child told the officers that a man who knew her father had forced her into the automobile and then remarked that he did not know whether to take her to Canton or to Pittsburgh. The child said:

"He first invited me to take a ride and when I told him no he grabbed me by the arm and pulled me into the car."

Leetsdale and Ambridge police, aided by more than 100 civilians, had searched the river banks and hillside roads from Sewickley to Aliquippa all Saturday night and early yesterday for trace of the child.

Parents of the child said that she had started down Broad street, Leetsdale, toward the postoffice Saturday on her daily mission there. She was seen last by schoolmates, who later were unable to recall where she had gone.

TOWN HALL DUE FOR AIRING

With a meeting of the County Commissioners scheduled for tomorrow, it is likely the town hall question will be brought up for discussion. Action on selection of a site was held up last week because Commissioner E. V. Babcock was absent from the city.

Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong has announced he was ready at any time to dispose of the town hall question and Commissioner C. C. McGovern stated he would bring the matter up at the next meeting of the board if his colleagues seemed reluctant to do so.

McGovern also has declared he would demand investigation of the Allegheny River boulevard project. A controversy has arisen over this work between the county and the Pennsylvania Water Works at Nadine.

Nursery School, Opened Here, Meets Success

A nursery school has sprung up in Squirrel Hill, where Miss Kathryn O'Donnell and Miss Agnes Power, both graduates of Carnegie Tech's Margaret Morrison College, have established what is said to be the only institution of its kind, at 5711 Wilkins avenue.

A number of children between 3 and 8 years are attending the school. The younger boys and girls spend the morning in class, eat in their own cafeteria, nap for one and one-half hours after lunch, and spend the afternoon in play.

A nurse, an advisory physician and a psychologist are part of the school's equipment. Conferences between parents and teachers are expected to influence the child's preliminary schooling materially, according to Miss O'Donnell.

Pastor Blames Society For Crime Wave

The responsibility for the major portion of the present and all crime waves rests upon society, the Rev. Frank Edwin Smith, pastor of the First Unitarian Church declared yesterday morning in his sermon on "How Can We Combat Crime."

He said in part:

"Crime will not be undone until society wills it so, regardless of all the strengthening that might be made in the law enforcement agencies. Radios on police cars and other measures to combat criminals will no doubt result in a reduction in robberies, but a study of the whole subject of crime is the greater need in the fight against crime.

"There will always be a certain amount of crime, but it can be restricted, and society can have a minimun amount of crime when it wishes it."

The Rev. Smith stated that causation factors in crime are of far more importance than remedial measures after crimes have been committed. He said:

"If crimes are caused by insanity, feeble-mindedness, or compelling environmental or economic factors all the radios in the world on police cars will not stop it."

MONEY EARNING DUTY OF MAN, PASTOR SAYS

Sermon Praises New Year Wishing Custom; Stresses Need of Financial Gain

Preaching a New Year's sermon in the North Ten Mile Baptist Church, near Washington, yesterday morning, the Rev. Stewart M. Smith, pastor, said in part:

"Wishing one another a happy and prosperous New Year and happiness and prosperity for ourselves is a good custom. Wishes and hopes have within them a certain power to fulfill themselves.

"Behind every event there is a cause. The final cause of success or failure is within ourselves. No true success or happiness can be possible without good sense. Good sense is forethought accompanied by consistent action. It is not good sense to underrate the important part money plays in a good man's life.

"Without money a man is useless to himself and to everyone else. Money explains the man—tells what he is and interprets everything he does. Thinking, acting and praying with the purpose of increasing one's ability to make money is the duty of the good man.

"But it is a great error to suppose there is an intrinsic difference between a small income and a large one so far as the worker himself is concerned. Life's rewards are found in the elation of spirits that comes to those who are conscious of the ability to think straight."

Make Arrests in Alleged Holdup of Gate-Keeper; Two Slugged and Robbed

The store was filled with smoke, Rose said. Rose ran out and called Patrolman Louis Battis and firemen. Every office in the building housing the store was searched by police and firemen for the safe cracker who jimmied a rear door leading to their balcony office.

The smoke was issuing from burning insulation on electric wires in the basement, firemen said.

. . . Each year more millions check Colds 2 WAYS at once

Mother! The night coughs of children can usually be relieved by one application of Vicks. Just rub on freely and cover with warm flannel.

Millions more each year find there is nothing to equal the double attack of Vicks VapoRub in checking colds.

Rubbed on throat and chest, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster, "drawing out" tightness and soreness. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by the body heat, are breathed in direct to the air-passages.

Increased Buying Speeds Wheels of Industry

All authorities agree that the best way to help business is to speed up consumption of goods. That sets idle wheels turning, increases employment of labor, and so adds to buying power. These same authorities agree that the best way to speed up consumption is to keep retail prices as low as possible. A&P does this in good times as well as in bad times. How this policy has worked in the present circumstances is shown by the fact that A&P is steadily adding to its payroll.

Today A&P is giving employment to 3,085 more wage earners than it did a year ago.

A&P has increased the average wage of all its employees by more than $50 a year.

The fact that A&P has been able to hire more workers and raise wages during hard times is due directly to its policy of cutting the retail price of food as fast as growers and producers reduce their prices to A&P.

Week's Debutante Whirl Opens With Luncheon For Margret Brill

Entertainments for the debutantes and for members of the school set will fill every minute of the afternoon and evening during the remainder of the holiday season.

Opening the gaieties of the week is the luncheon Mrs. Edwin Ruud is giving today in the Twentieth Century Club in honor of Margret Brill, debutante daughter of the Alred Polland Brills, of St. James street.

The pastels of early spring flowers used in decorating are a decided change from holiday colors. Covers are laid for 30 sister buds and a few friends of Mrs. Ruud.

The young debutante is wearing a smart frock of moon satin with a hat to match, while the hostess has chosen black satin with a hat to match. And I want to add that the favors for the buds came from Norway.

MUSIC

Pittsburgh Symphony Society,
Syria Mosque

PROGRAM.

Symphony No. 6 "Pastoral," Op. 68 ..... Beethoven
Antiche Danze ed Arie ..... Respighi
Depuis le jour, from "Louise" ..... Charpentier
Mr. Viola Spice Dans La Nuit, from "The Pearl Fishers" ..... Bizet
Louise Lerch.
Overture to the Opera, "Tannhauser" ..... Wagner

The Pittsburgh Symphony Society gave a rousing holiday concert at Syria Mosque last night before its usual eager audience. A little astonished at first at the theatricalities of Bernardino Molinari, guest conductor, everyone soon warmed up to our visitor, and before the evening was over, we were all happy enough to acclaim a man who is the first to have had enough enthusiasm and to have taken enough trouble to arouse our orchestra to such a point of excellence. The players must have learned much from Molinari, no matter what the net results musically.

J. Fred Lissfelt

The program was one of the best chosen so far by the orchestra, the soloist appearing only in the second half. The Respighi arrangement of the old Italian dances is an attractive novelty, still more effective as piano solo, transcribed by the same composer. Both the Beethoven Symphony and the Tannhaeuser Overture in the hands of this impassioned Italian must have been a surprise to most musicians.

There is always a question regarding the volume of tone in the modern orchestra when playing works written during the early nineteenth century. It seems that Molinari strikes a middle course, neither playing with all volume at his disposal, nor weakening his orchestra, thus overlooking the acoustics of the modern concert hall. No matter how many players at hand, surely there is never any diminution in Beethoven's emotion, and that Molinari understands and richly expresses. Unlike his illustrious fellow-conductor Toscanini, he omits all Italian gallantries, and plays Beethoven. That he may have wished for more support from certain choirs of the orchestra can easily be understood, but that he made all his players respond with their utmost is a certainty, and an everlasting credit to these musicians.

Molinari's Wagner, in tempo and fury, was a veritable taste of Bayreuth under the new engime. It was an exciting performance, but had we heard it as at Bayreuth, with the conductor under cover, we could have listened better, perhaps not have enjoyed it so thoroughly.

Louise Lerch, soprano from the Metropolitan Opera, and formerly closely associated with Pittsburgh's music colony, received a most cordial welcome. She sang two airs with orchestra, and then the lovely Nightingale and the Rose of Rimsky-Korsakoff and a Rispetto of Wolf-Ferrari. When she had finished the last we wished she might begin all over again, for then her voice had warmed up to the situation and began to give up that complete richness which we had always known in her singing. Operatic singers are wont to display their histrionics unsparingly on the concert stage. Miss Lerch avoided all such affectations: though the air from Bizet's Pearl Fishers is true bel canto, Charpentier's Louise is a child of Paris, and our singer should have winked at some vocal perfections for the sake of the glorious abandon within the music of Depuis le Jour.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

URGES CLOSING OF OLD CHURCH

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—An 116-year-old church, once the bulwark of the Episcopal diocese of Virginia, will be closed for lack of active membership, if its rector's recommendations are adopted by the parishioners.

The Rev. A. C. Tebeau, in a sermon, urged that the congregation of Monumental Episcopal Church divide among other churches in the city and that the ancient structure be placed in charge of the bishop of Virginia as a shrine.

The church, one of the four oldest in the city, was erected in 1814 as a monument to the dead of a theater fire disaster here in 1811.

LOWELL URGES FELLOWSHIPS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Prize fellowships for students who are eminent in their chosen fields were advocated today by President A. Lawrence Lowell, of Harvard University, in his annual report to the board of overseers. The recently-adopted house plan for the students would be particularly adapted to such a project, he said. He added:

"It has been suggested that a group of fellowships for men not over 25 on appointment, who should be members of a society with scholars eminent in various fields, living where they are naturally much together and frequently meet for meals, would have a highly stimulating effect.

"The prize fellowships at some of the English colleges, especially at Trinity, Cambridge, are of this nature, and they have produced an extraordinary number of distinguished men, one half of the British recipients of the Nobel prizes having been holders of Trinity fellowships.

THE 'LITTLE' FROCK INDORSED BY FASHIONABLE PARISIENNES

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 29.—The "little" frock elicits large applause whenever it is shown in a collection. It always seems so refreshingly desirable, after a parade of mannequins wearing rich evening frocks and ensembled and gorgeous house attire. After all this parade of luxurious splendor, the unpretentious little frock of unobtrusive smartness, no trimming and definite charm comes like a refreshing breeze on a sultry day. Every visitor sees herself wearing such a creation and visualizes a day of varied activities that just calls for such a model. And that is why these simple little frocks are often more quickly disposed of than the more pretentious garments. They make a woman feel young, and to feel young is to look young. They avoid all pretentions to dressiness and fussiness, two attributes that are often synonymous, and yet manage to convey an air of superlative smartness.

* * *

SUCH A FROCK as we have described above is featured in the new collection shown by Germaine Lecomte and it has been especially sketched for our readers. The model is of bottle green wool marocain, a most suitable material for such a frock. The draped collar, the tunic and the skirt are all edged with set-in, fan-shaped pieces with pin-tucking and toothed edges. Little turned-back cuffs are similarly treated. The small bow at one side of the collar and the buckled belt preserve the essential simplicity of the dress by being of the marocain.

* * *

WORTH HAS EXCELLED himself this year and in particular his evening frocks have won him fresh laurels. The frock depicted here is an eloquent example of the frock that he is stressing this season. Its classically graceful and simple lines are interpreted through the medium of thin black velvet. The draped cape in back seems quite Greek in inspiration. It is caught up in center beneath a handsome diamond brooch. The circular skirt is of even length and is attached to a close fitting yoke in one piece with the bodice.

Hyde declared he had not changed his position that $25,000,000 will be sufficient to meet demands for seed, feed and fertilizer loans.

He said:

"What is the use of prolonging ? o fight? If there is need for it and we are wrong in our estimates we will use it."

Chairman Wood, of the Appropriations Committee, predicted the full committee would approve the $45,000,000 fund Monday, and said action in the House may take place the same day.

Sport Comment

By JAMES J. LONG

New Notre Dame Stars. Mack's Slab Judgment.
All-Nations Backfield. Films Tempting Sande.
Ringdom Lacks Dillons. Value of Team Work.

ROCKNE ABLE TO REPLACE LOST ACES

FOLLOWING THE LOSS of star football players in the past, Notre Dame rarely failed to bob up with new ones of equal or even greater luster, and, according to Tom Conley, the retiring captain of the 1930 wonder team, the South Bend school will be found living up to tradition in that respect next season. In spite of the heavy gridiron losses to be suffered through graduation before the arrival of another pigskin campaign, Conley believes that Notre Dame will have another great eleven, one capable of carrying on the string of 19 consecutive victories now standing to the credit of Rockne's Rovers.

Dan Hanley

And it is in the backfield, where the loss is heavier than in the line, that the 1930 captain is particularly confident of new greatness. He looks for Dan Hanley to be a polished fullback before the season is over, one who will compare favorably with Joe Savoldi and Moon Mullins; he is completely sold on Nick Lukats, who will replace Marty Brill at halfback, and sees Laurie Vejar as a coming sensation at the quarterback post of the great Frank Carideo.

INCIDENTALLY, THAT NEW backfield will be of a nature to continue the league-of-nations aspect of Notre Dame teams, and to give the sport humorists further opportunities to fling quips at the nickname of "Fighting Irish." For it will present in Vejar, at quarterback, a Mexican; in Schwartz, at left halfback, a German; in Lukats, at right half, a Creek, and in Hanley, at fullback, a son of Erin.

"I am especially hopeful about Lukats," Conley says. "He is a sophomore now and has two more years to go. He's a real football player and he'll shine back of that line next season. The same goes for Vejar, who hails from Hollywood. He's good, make no mistake about it. Hanley will come fast, and Rock will have plenty of fine backs for next season. Those boys will come strongly, once Rock starts to develop them. Besides, Schwartz will be in the lineup, and he can steady the rest a lot. Don't worry about Notre Dame in 1931.

VETERAN PITTSBURGH BOXING fans will concur in an opinion just expressed by Dan Morgan, manager of many a good fighter during the last 30 years, who says that Jack Dillon, former Indianapolis middleweight, won the right to be ranked among the greatest fighters of any era.

Jack Dillon

Dillon got his early development in this city after the boxing game opened up here during the sesqui-centennial celebration in 1908. When just stepping out he was taken in charge by Roy Schooley and starting in 1910 he appeared frequently in Pittsburgh rings for several years, meeting Jim Perry, George Chip, Billy Berger, Harry Mansfield, Mike Glover, Young Loughrey, Billy Clarke, Ralph Erne, George K. O. Brown, Frank Klaus, Billy Griffith, Jimmy Gardiner, Al Rogers, Buck Crouse and others.

"THE BEST FIGHTERS of today are not to be compared with the best we had in the past," Morgan declares. "You don't have to go back so very far, either, to pick out the fellows I have in mind. Just go back about 15 years and think of a fellow named Jack Dillon, for instance. See any Dillons around now? Say, I don't think there ever was a better fighter, pound for pound, than Dillon. He fought middleweights, light-heavyweights and heavyweights, and he never weighed more than 154 pounds in those days. He was cool, smart, rugged and a murderous puncher, and for five years or so he was about as hard a fellow to beat as there was in the world."

ONE QUALITY THAT makes Connie Mack a great baseball general is his ability to handle pitchers and to pick the right slabmen for the right spots. He devotes the greater part of his time to the study of his staff, and he appears to know just what each man can do against a certain club at a certain time.

It is Mack's custom to talk over the pitching selection for each day with the members of his board of strategy, and he even listens to the views of some of the players. But in the end it is Connie himself who does the picking, and the veterans on his club marvel at the frequency with which he makes the correct guess.

ACCORDING TO SUCH a wise old head as Kid Gleason, Mack's individual judgment on pitchers is better than the consensus opinion of his advisers. Some outsiders may think that Connie is not as alert as a younger man would be, but those in the know laugh at this.

Earl Sande

They say that the ability of the 68-year-old chieftain to pick the right hurler from day to day was the main factor in the pennant and world series success of the A's the last two years. They point out that he worked Grove repeatedly against the Red Sox but used him sparingly against the Yankees, and that Lefty's victories over the Red Sox were enough to give the White Elephants the flag last season.

WHETHER OR NOT Earl Sande will continue to ride race horses in 1931 is an open question right now. Even Sande himself doesn't know. He is trying to make a choice between the turf and the singing pictures. The famous rider is said to have quite a singing voice and has already sung with success over the air. He is now in Hollywood for his first venture as a screen singer, and upon the outcome of the test will depend his decision. Sande made $35,000 riding Gallant Fox this year. Success in the film world would mean even larger returns. But where he is established in the one line of work, the other is only a gamble in which he may or may not come through. Earl admits that he doesn't know which way to turn, but says he is going to take plenty of time in making up his mind.

THAT TEAM WORK is everything in football, as in any other game, and that you can't just pick up 11 stars from here and there and get the same scoring results with them as you could with 11 other who are accustomed to playing together, never was more clearly demonstrated than in last Saturday's two charity games in California.

One of the four teams participating was made up entirely of men who had played for Notre Dame in 1929 or 1930. The three other elevens were composed of gridders selected from the squads of many colleges, players chosen for their individual records and brilliance.

THE RETURNS SHOW a 20-to-7 victory for the Notre Dame men over their all-star opponents, and a 3-to-0 win for the all-West

HUGO ADVISES FOOTBALL 'GO ACADEMIC'

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Hugo Bezdek, former football coach at Penn State and now director of physical education there, threw a bombshell into the tenth annual meeting of the Football Coaches' Association of America here today when he presented for their consideration 14 points for the benefit of the sport. Several of the proposals advocated revolutionary changes and aroused considerable indignation from some of the delegates.

Bezdek's report, lambasted from several sources after discussions with various university authorities, handled without gloves some of the so-called evils of the game. He recommended that administrative control of college athletics be centralized in the head of a school of physical education who would be responsible to the president and trustees; that a football coach be a bona fide member of the college faculty with an academic title and a salary comparable with his academic ranking; that steps be taken to abolish recruiting and subsidizing of athletes, and that considerably less time be devoted to football pratice.

ACTION DEFERRED

Action on Bezdek's report was deferred.

Several coaches, including John F. (Chick) Meehan, attacked Bezdek's proposals. Meehan, formerly coach at Syracuse and now the mentor at New York University, termed the report "silly and uncalled for."

While indignation was at its height, the coaches voted 43 to 11 to table the report. But when other coaches came to Bezdek's rescue, declaring the report contained some good points, the motion was reconsidered. It was decided to defer action on the report until later.

Bezdek's recommendations follow:

1. That all administrative control of college athletics shall be centralized in the head of a school of physical education, who shall be responsible to the president and trustees in the same manner as are the heads of other schools and departments within the college, and for the budgeting, allocation and execution of an appropriate program of intercollegiate and intramural athletics.
2. That football shall be incorporated as an integral part of the school or department.
3. That the coach of football shall be a bona-fide member of the college faculty with an academic title.
4. That the method of selection of a football coach shall be made and his tenure of office shall continue in the same manner as that of other members of the faculty.
5. That the coach shall receive a salary comparable with his academic ranking in the college faculty.
6. That this association shall endorse the medical supervision of football players.
7. That future football games shall be scheduled only with institutions committed to the high ideals of this association.
8. That football practice shall begin September 15.
9. That football practice shall be limited to two hours per day.
10. That spring football practice shall be eliminated.
11. That the committee on ethics shall study further the question of no scouting in football.
12. That the committee on rules shall investigate ways and means of simplifying the game for increasing participation in football.
13. That this association shall advocate the abolition of recruiting and subsidizing athletes.
14. That publicity from the colleges shall be presented to the press in a manner to emphasize the educational value of football.

SIGNED BY ROPER

Bezdek declared the coaches must take the initiative with regard to rectifying certain conditions or have reform "thrust upon them." He asserted the faculty at many colleges are awakened to the belief that they must have administrative control of athletics. Too many coaches, he said, have worked to build up winning teams for the sake of publicity.

Bezdek's report also was signed by Bill Roper, who concluded his coaching career at Princeton this season.

Bezdek, who at one time was manager of the Pittsburgh National League baseball club, has had wide experience on the gridiron. An all-America player in his day, he was later coach at Arkansas, Oregon and Penn State and assistant coach under Alonzo Stagg at the University of Chicago. He is now director of the school of physical education at

A. A. to Hold New Parley on Draft Question

TOLEDO, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—The American Association's acceptance of the draft proposal offered by the American and National Leagues will stand until new action is taken according to Oscar J. Smith, president of the Toledo Club. Smith was one of five association club owners who made up the majority voting for draft peace.

Smith said he felt that until a new parley is held the association clubs will be free to deal with the majors. A conference to reconsider the mail vote by which the association accepted the universal draft, has been asked by George Muehlbach, president of the Kansas City club. President Thomas J. Hickey acceded, but fixed no date for a new conference.

Ernest S. Barnard, president of the American League, notified all majors to refrain from player relations until further notice.

GERMAN BANK NOTES WERE USED FOR PRESCRIPTIONS—When the German government stabilized the rentenmark (its new currency) at the rate of one new mark equal to one billion old marks, the small 50,000,000 mark banknotes circulating in Germany were worth about one cent in American money. As the banknotes were printed on only one side, doctors found it convenient as well as picturesque to use the banknotes as prescription blanks. The example I used is a bona fide prescription which was filled by a German apothecary. With two of their stars, Dante Vallani and Bobby Boyle on the sidelines, and Mangus banished from the battle, the Morgan eleven put forth its greatest show of defensive soccer to defeat Cecil, 3 to 2, and advance to the next round in the National amateur soccer cup race. Yesterday's emboglio was staged at Cecil's grounds, being marred at it end by unnecessary brawling on the part of spectators. It is not improbable district soccer moguls will censor the Cecil management for not keeping the unruly crowd in hand.

All of the goals were registered in the first half, and the large crowd was in an uproar a great portion of the time. A quartet of boosters stood out in Morgan's victory, Cyle and Burnaby, for Morgan, and Godrey and Augie Behling, for Cecil, taking the honors for their splendid defensive exhibitions.

Morgan was frightfully handicaped in being unable to use the services of either Boyle or Buff Donnelli, who are ineligible for amateur competition, and it was further weakened in the second half through the loss of Mangus, who was ejected for talking back to Referee Simpson, causing the victor to finish the contest with only 10 players. Burnaby, Usnick and Bill O'Donnell ably took the places of the Morgan stars who were benched.

With the game only 10 minutes old, Cecil scored first blood when Cherokee beat Burnaby with a commendable shot. Shortly after Morgan returned the slap when Charley Powell slipped one into the net to tie the score.

Fred Donnelli put his team in the lead with the next goal, while Barrafoldi, closing in fast on the Cecil defense, sent Morgan two in the lead. The final tally was registered for the home eleven when Cherokee accounted for his second goal.

Although both teams played great ball in the second period, neither was able to push through a goal.

In other soccer tilts yesterday, Pittsburgh Youth bumped the German Eagles, 4-1; Graztown and Elizabeth tied, 1-1; Gallatin blanked Herminie, 2-0, and Bower Hill won from Coverdale, 3-0.

Dunlevy beat Fintex Shannon, 1-0; Curry bowed to Bridgeville, 3-2; Piney Fork lost to Glendale, 4-1, and Atlasburg and Primrose tied, 1-1. Vestaburg lost to Fitz-Henry via the forfeit route. The lineup of the national amateur cup game:

By JULIUS LEVIN

Followers of basketball in Pittsburgh will get their first chance of the season to see the Westminster College passers in action here tomorrow night when Coach Frank Stansbury sends his Community House quintet against the Titans on the Community House floor.

The appearance of the Titans in an independent game is one of the many contests arranged by local quintets featuring collegiate opponents. The Irene Kaufmann Settlement House passers defeated the Dukes earlier in the season and next Friday night will meet Geneva College on the Center avenue court. The Butler Paulists likewise have arranged an attractive schedule of college games for the Butler floor. So far this season the Paulists have engaged Grove City College, Capital University, Geneva College and have several others to play before the schedule is completed.

SILJANDER STAR

The visit of the Titans should have a tendency to bring out a large crowd of basketball supporters. Whitey Siljander, who first gained fame as all-scholastic forward and center at Schenley High School, is a member of the Westminster squad. Siljander also performed for the I. K. S. Community House, fresh its victory over the Charleroi Merchants, will make a determined effort to add the collegians to its list of victims.

Tonight's basketball card is a light one. In the West Penn League, St. Michael's is the attraction of the South Side Falcons, while in the Wagner Institutional League, Trinity Cathedral entertains Sewickley Y.

SALVATION ARMY GAMES

The Salvation Army opens its floor activities for the season tonight, when its Red Shield and Boys' Club fives meet corresponding teams from Alliance, O., in the Salvation Army gym, downtown. The first game, between the Boys' Club fives, is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock. Later, Salvation Army teams will come here from Buffalo, Cleveland, Youngstown and other cities for games.

Local Amateurs In International Tournament

BOSTON, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—The first team of Nova Scotia amateur boxers ever to appear in Boston will go into action tonight at the New England A. A. U.'s international show at the arena. The "Down-Easters," will compete against boys representing Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

GEORGE ENGLE HERE

George Engle, of New York, manager of boxers, is on his way to Florida, after having stopped off in the Pittsburgh district to visit relatives over the Christmas holidays. He is going South by train, as a result of having his car wrecked en route here from New York. Engle managed both Frank Klaus, of Braddock, and Harry Greb, of Pittsburgh, when they held the middleweight championship.

By JESS CARVER.

Carnegie Tech's basketball team will pull the cork from what promises to be a very busy and interesting bottle of intercollegiate basketball tonight. The Plaid will trade punches (figuratively of course) with the young gentlemen of Lehigh University in the Tartan gym, beginning at 8 p. m. The contest is the first collegiate test of the year for the Skibos, and marks the first appearance of a Lehigh team here for a number of seasons.

Coach Buzz Horan shoved his Tartans off on the right hoof last Friday evening in Youngstown, peering complacently from the bench as the locals walloped the Y. M. C. A. College team of that place. He was especially tickled with the excellent sharpshooting of his captain, Georgie Porgie Nease, and of young Smith. This pair, wired up at the forwards, set off a perfect barrage of field goals that kissed the Whyem cagers right out of the ball game.

PLAY THREE GAMES

Lehigh, opening a three-game invasion of these parts, will be very anxious to open up with a triumph. After playing the Skibos, the Brown and White (yep, those are Lehigh's colors) have Geneva and Duquesne to mess with.

The starting lineup for Carnegie tonight will have Nease and Smith at the forwards, Stentz at center and little Jimmy (James to you) Leonard and Red Fergus at the guards. Fox, Logan Webster, Harry Seigal, Jimmy Traa, Knouse and Bronson will be perched on the splinters itching to break into the action as reserves.

Lehigh's team is a veteran combination. In Nemetz, a speedy and a dangerous forward, the Brown and White boasts a real scoring threat. Shaub and Nora (I'll bet he is Irish) are very capable guards.

There will be no preliminary game. Cal Bolster and Dan (Zipper) Brickley will officiate. There, even if the ball game is a flop, you'll get your coin's worth watching that pair.

The Tipoff

There have been many arguments about the country during the past three months relative to the actual weight of young Bertie Metzger, Knute Rockne's pint-sized, watch charm guard. Well, for your information, and files, if any, let it be known that young Mr. Metzger weighs exactly 149½ pounds.

With Purdue here tomorrow, Lehigh and Indiana Thursday night and Lehigh in Beaver Falls the evening before, and the Tartans hopping off on a road trip Friday, it is safe to report that like the automobile, the basketball season is here to stay.

Some more bridge. Playing the other night with the frau and Herb Williams and his boss, we had one hand that should have been thrown out of the window. Herbie, my partner, bid a heart. The wife (mine) bid a no-trump and then I mentioned two clubs, just to be different, you know. Well, Mrs. Williams shouted loud and long for two hearts, over her hubby's original heart bid, and my better half bid three of my clubs. Doubled and re-doubled, they went down two tricks, making it a pleasant evening in all.

There is a horsie stabled at Agua Caliente (down in Mexico, my friends), worth the watching. One of these days, he's gonna gallop home with a sweet price hanging about his ears. His name is Roodles. Running at Hawthorne this year, this haybURner looked to be in a swell spot; the bookies were offering 15 to 1 on him and he gets into the race and leads to the stretch. Then, when his jockey thought everything was set, he pulled him up and, sweetie, a long shot no longer than he would have been, whizzed past to cop. Such a life.

Pitt was invited to send a baseball player along with the team of all-college stars that is touring Cuba at the present time, but because baseball has been dropped as a varsity sport, the Panther officials did not accept the bid. There are some good ball players in school out there, too, including Rip Collins, Bulldog Reider, Rocco Cutri, and Zola Alpert.

Olympic Hockey Series Under Way

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—The New York Athletic Club defeated the Penn A. C., of Philadelphia, 5 to 2, yesterday in one of the games on the Amateur Athletic Union's "Olympic Development" Hockey series. By CARL W. SHATTO.

An International League ruling which specifies that only 14 men may be carried after January 4 resulted in seven members of the Yellow Jacket hockey team being sent to Roy D. Schooley's Niagara Falls farm today.

Paddy Sullivan, Ben Manners, Weaf McLeod, Spiff Mattie and Jimmy Smith, forwards; Red Moore, defense man, and Buff Fisher, goalie, are the departed skaters. All are subject to recall.

Frock Lowrey, who played with the Pirates here during the 1925-26 season, is to report to Coach Charles Reid this week for a trial with the Jackets, Schooley announced. Frock is a brother of Jerry Lowrey, who played right wing for the Pirates. Since leaving Pittsburgh he has seen service with the Toronto Nationals and Internationals.

LOOP WELL BALANCED

The inability of any team to enjoy a prolonged winning streak testifies to the even balance of the International Hockey League.

Although the Buffalo Bisons are pacing the circuit, to the Windsor Bulldogs goes the honor of fighting through the greatest number of games without a reversal. The second-place Bulldogs early in the season annexed three victories and two ties before being handed a setback. Buffalo is second in the long-winning race as a result of collecting four successive triumphs, and on another occasion the Bisons enjoyed three straight successes.

Like Buffado, Pittsburgh also reeled off four contests without tasting of defeat, but two of the successes in the Jackets' best string were deadlocks.

THREE IN ROW

Cleveland's best showing has been three wins in a row; London won two and tied one before being stopped and the best Detroit and Syracuse can show in their win-string collections is two games.

The Yellow Jackets are the only team that Windsor has not defeated, but Buffalo, London and Cleveland have enjoyed great success against the local puckmen. The Bisons have stopped the Jackets three times and the Tecumsehs have taken the Schooley skafers' measure twice in as many starts. Against Cleveland, Pittsburgh tied one and lost two. Pittsburgh has beaten Detroit twice in two attempts, and the locals are the only team that the Olympics have not been able to stop.

LOCALS HELP BUFFALO

Figures on games played up to and including Friday night show that Pittsburgh, Syracuse and London have contributed most to Buffalo's success. The Jackets and Stars each have dropped three games to the pace-setters, and the Tecumsehs have lost two decisions. Of the three, none has been able to gain so much as a tie when pitted against the Bisons.

Windsor has beaten Buffalo twice in three starts, and Detroit has broken even with the leaders in two fights. The Bulldogs also hold a two-to-one edge over Detroit and Cleveland.

Cleveland has not been able to beat Windsor or Detroit, but the Indians have prospered against Syracuse and Pittsburgh, winning three and losing none against the Stars and winning two and tying one against the locals.

MEET JACKETS NEXT

Windsor and Buffalo are the only teams that Detroit has not been able to defeat, and Syracuse has failed to register a win against either Buffalo or Cleveland.

Buffalo's mighty Bisons are the Yellow Jackets' next foe. The pace-setters are to appear at Duquesne Garden next Thursday (New Year's) night.

SYRACUSE WINS

SYRACUSE, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—The Syracuse Stars scored their first victory of the season over the league-leading Buffalo Bisons here yesterday, taking a 3-to-1 decision in one of the roughest exhibitions of hockey witnessed here.

SAINT BERNARD COPS

MARSEILLES, France, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Arthur Veil-Picard's Saint Bernard won the Massiglia Stakes, a steeplechase handicap of two miles, six and one-half furlongs yesterday.

WOOD WINS TITLE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Sydney R. Wood, Jr., of Pasadena, defeated Lester Stofen, Los Angeles, 8-6, 6-3, in the Southern California midwinter net tourney final.

JOHNNY WEISSMULLER'S THEIR COACH

Little Wanda and Gloria Winchell, daughters of Walter Winchell, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's Broadway columnist, take swimming lessons from none other than Johnny Weissmuller, one of the leading mermen of all time, at Miami Beach, Fla., where the family is holidaying.

Sport Vignettes

How could the all-East team hope to beat the all-West aggregation, anyway, with a guy named Kitzmiller in the Westerners' lineup? . . . Probably the most-sided competition in sports during 1930 was the international yachting series for the America's Cup, with the Yankee entry, Enterprise, coasting off with the honors against Sir Tom Lipton's latest Shamrock . . . Jack Portney, of Baltimore, will box Baby Joe Gans in the semi-final to Vince Dundee's bout with Len Harvey, the European middleweight champion, in Madison Square Garden, New York, January 9 . . . . The Coast, which saw Notre Dame crush Southern California, got a glimpse of the remainder of the act when Joe Savoldi ran wild for three touchdowns against an all-star team Saturday as his bit of the Irish All Stars' 20-7 victory.

If you can unscramble the flyweight championship muddle you're a better man than Einstein. Gunga Din . . . Here are Midget Wolgast and the 30-year-old Frankie Genaro fighting a 15-round draw for the bauble that leaves them right back where they started . . . . The history of Genaro is particularly interesting . . . . A former Olympic champion, he whipped the colorful Pancho Villa for the American title and should have got the crack at Jimmy Wilde, the Welsh star, for the world title, but Villa was adjudged to have more box office appeal than the more or less colorless Frankie and was promoted into the match, from which he emerged with a knockout victory and the crown . . . . Villa wouldn't fight Genaro again, and, when he died, Genaro was generally accepted as the king of the class by acclamation.

Fidel LaBarba, another Olympic champion, defeated Genaro to grab the honors and was beaten twice in overweight matches by Johnny Vacca, of Boston, and then resigned the title to ehter Stanford University . . . . Genaro twice defeated Vacca and again claimed the crown, but a series of elimination tournaments then were staged, with Genaro reaching the final of the New York test with Corp. Izzy Schwartz . . . . Frankie defaulted when he walked out on the match and Newsboy Brown took his place and defeated Schwartz, but didn't hang around long as a claimant . . . . Schwartz claimed the title, but, meanwhile, Genaro went to Canada and won National Boxing Association tournament, as a result of which he still is considered champion by that organization, while Wolgast is regarded as the champion in states not affiliated with that body by reason of winning another tournament in New York . . . . It's all very clear, if you are an expert at unraveling puzzles.

A flock of good players are representing the five teams in the Pittsburgh Squash Racquets Association League, which has just finished its second week of competition . . . . There are, for instance, G. L. Stocking, J. D. McCutcheon, William D. Bickel and Herb Lytle, of the Keystone Club . . . . And Percy Siverd and Scotty Burke, of the P. A. A.; McCook Reed and Barney Wolf, of the Pittsburgh Golf Club; Dave Gilmore, Alex Robinson and Stan Quay, of the Allegheny Country Club, and Frank White, former national champion; Frank McClintock and G. A. Fagan, of the University Club.—HARRY KECK.

MANLEY SETS LINKS MARK.

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Johnny (Withdrew) Manley, tall, dark and handsome Montour Heights Country Club professional, has established another golf record. Johnny, winter professionaling at Green Cove Springs, Florida, where he is instructor at the Qui-Si-Sana course, first tied the links record with a 35 on one round, and followed it up by lowering it by a stroke in registering a 34 on his second turn.

Manley was playing with a couple of Jacksonvillians, when he set the mark. It is a nine-hole 2,847-yard affair, with par 35. He has been "working" on his game, and expects to return in the spring a real threat for all opposition in local tournaments.

BILLY BULLEY TWO-FISTED PUNCHER

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

A boxer with two good punching fists and a manager with a name that you have to unscramble appears to be in a fair way to capture the hearts of the local boxing followers. He is Billy Bulley, an importation from Mt. Clemens, Mich., known out in his neck of the woods as the Michigan Buzzsaw.

Billy Bulley

The manager's name, before we go further, is Samuel Steinbach, a former Pittsburgher come home to roost. He has been handling Bulley throughout the seven years of the latter's ring career, which embraces 169 bouts, in which he has scored more than 100 knockouts.

WINS OVER KAUFMAN

Bulley made his local debut in the second bout at Motor Square Garden, Christmas afternoon, and will be back on the card there next Monday night. He is a 160-pounder. His first opponent here was Larry Kaufman, of Louisville and McKeesport, a notoriously hard puncher, and the way Bulley sailed into him and punched him about round after round was a caution. He staggered the rugged Kaufman several times.

Among the better known men Bulley has beaten around Detroit are Ray Van Hook, Eddie Dyer, Jackie Horner, Harry Fine and Tony Ross, formerly of Carnegie. Just keep a weather eye on Bulley if you like the two-fisted type of fighter.

Between Rounds

Promoter Angelo Mecaro, of the Monaco Temple, has teamed together a pip of a card for his weekly show Friday night, topping it off with a meeting between Jimmy Kelly, of the North Side, and Young Rudy, of Charleroi, two of the best "club fighters" in the district. Kelly, a great puncher and a favorite with the Monaco fans, will come in around 145 pounds, his natural weight, and quite a difference from the 139½ pounds he scaled for Eddie Shipkowski, his most recent battle, in which he was knocked out after a spectacular fight. Al Becker, of Monaco, and Billy Brent, Negro, of the Hill, rugged middleweights, box the semi-final. Moe Butch, southpaw bantamweight, of the Hill, and Andy Tomonky, of Turtle Creek, banister the second bout, and Frankie Portland, of Arnold, and Eddie Goba, of Clairton, lightweights, the opener. Portland and Goba fought a thrilling bout at Aliquippa on Christmas Day, with both on the floor.

Harry Williams, local Negro lightheavyweight, has been remarried with Harold Nugent, of Youngstown, for the semi-final to the Jackie Rodgers-Johnny Datto bout at Motor Square Garden, New Year's afternoon, at his own request. He recently bested Scarpero there after a long layoff due to a broken right hand and had to be over-careful with that fist, so that he fought virtually a one-handed battle and lost the decision. He believes he can reverse the verdict now and promises to give a much better account of himself. Jack Trarer and Nick Polis, middleweights, box the second bout and Steve Resick and Jimmy Riley are in the opener.

Midget Mike O'Dowd wants to fight the winner of the Johnny Datto-Jackie Rodgers bout here. He defeated Rodgers at the Garden a couple of years ago.

Babe Ansos, former New Kensington boxer, now is boxing out of Syracuse and has beaten Mike Dempsey and others, his record being 11 victories in his last 13 bouts. During the past week he has been helping Rushy Graham train for the latter's bout with Davy Abad in St. Louis, Friday night.

Tiny Smith, of Washington, Pa., and Sheffield, England, wants to fight the leading flyweights, George Tucker, of Washington, is his manager. Smith boasted a fine record on the Coast prior to coming to these parts some months ago.

Joe Dubranski has just signed Teddy Welch, McKeesport lightweight, to a three-year contract and has him in shape to resume battling. Joe also manages Andy Stabura, 128 pounds; Andy Tomonsky, 122; Georgie Tomonky, 114; Jackie Blackburn, 145; Jess Hosk, 140; Chuck Zelnack, 158; Mickey Zelnack, 135, and Harry Moss, 118.

The Evening Telegram, of Toronto says the Willie Davies-Midget Wolgast bout staged there only a little more than a week ago was one of the fastest and most exciting battles ever fought in that city and contradicts news service reports that Wolgast was an easy winner.

OSA CANCELS BOUT

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—A broken hand has taken Mateo Osa, Spanish heavyweight boxer, off the card at Madison Square Garden next Friday night. He was to meet Pierre Charles in the main bout. Stanley Poreda may take his place.

WILSON DRIVES IN 190 RUNS FOR RECORD

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

The shot heard 'round the world didn't have much on the echoes that rang off the bat of Martinsburg Hack Wilson as that study Cub conducted his campaign of awal last summer. Figures given out by the National League today disclose that the new home run king of baseball hung up a new major league record for driving in runs.

Hack Wilson

Lewis R. sent no less than 190 of his Chicago teammates scampering across the plate in the course of the 1930 chase. In the previous season, Hack established a league record when he batted in 159 runs.

KLEIN SHARES GLORY

Hack the Whacker led all batters of the Heydler circuit in slugging percentage, although Chuck Klein, the Quaker tiger man, eclipsed Wilson on total bases for the season. Chuck rolled up 445 bases as compared with 423 for the Martinsburg mauler. Wilson showed he doesn't do anything in a half-way manner; he drew the most base on balls, 105, and struck out the most times, 84.

Partly because the Pirates have no trick fences at which to shoot, none of the Ensmen are around the leaders in slugging, as computed by the figures. Adam Comorosky, Pie Traynor and Gus Suhr drove in more than 100 runs and George Grantham fell only one tally below that margin.

CUYLER IS TARGET

Hazen Cuyler, Chicago, was hit with pitched ball most often, 10 times. Of the regular players, Clifford R. Crawford, New York-Cincinnati, struck out the least number of times, 12, in 191 games. After having batted in 100 or more runs for six consecutive seasons, James L. Bottomley, St. Louis, failed by three to make 100 during 1930. Wilson batted in more than 100 runs for the fifth successive year. Seventeen players had 100 or more runs batted in, a league mark, passing the record of 16 made in 1929.

ROSES TOURNEY TEAMS REST

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Football players of Alabama and Western State opponents in the sixteenth annual intersectional New Year's Day clash thrust the cares of the gridiron behind them yesterday and took sight-seeing tours through Southern California. Both teams expected to take in points of interest along the Pacific Ocean front, including Los Angeles Harbor and the Naval fleet at anchor.

Today's practice will be taken up in earnest again, with the Cougars from the Northeast facing probably the hardest workout Coach Orin (Babe) Hollingberry expects to put his gridsters through a hard session both today and tomorrow, allowing them to taper down on Wednesday.

Coach Wallace Wade has entirely different ideas for the Crimson Tide. He gave his squad its last strenuous drill Saturday.

ARRIVE BY PLANE

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—The Mid-West and Southwest football squads, scheduled to meet New Year's Day in the annual Dixie football classic here, will be completed today when five of the Southwest team's absentees arrive in a plane from the Pacific Coast, where they engaged in games Saturday.

Indianapolis Signs Hendricks as Scout

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Jack Hendricks, for six years manager of the Cincinnati Reds, will assist in handling the Indianapolis American Association baseball team next season.

He is to be assistant to the club president, Norman A. Perry, and will act as general advisor and scout.

Basketball Rules Quiz

PLAY NO. 24 (FINAL)

In the final article of this series on basketball plays and correct rulings we are listing Oswald Tower's version of "blocking," as well as the interpretation on "in the act of throwing for goal," which may clear up the point for many of the fans.

"Blocking is impeding the progress of a player who has not the ball. This is a simple definition, but its application and interpretation are not simple, and the more one tries to elaborate on the definition by describing the various phases of blocking, the more complex it becomes. 'Face guarding' may or may not be blocking; it depends on the meaning of 'face guarding.' If a defensive player turns his back to the ball, shifts his position when his opponent shifts, thus preventing his opponent from getting into a position to receive the ball, he is blocking his opponent even though no personal contact takes place. The Eastern Intercollegiate League offers the following statement:

"'Blocking occurs with men in motion only in the event personal contact is made, except in the following case: If a player attains a position on the floor which results in cutting off an opponent and subsequently makes any movement or motion which impedes the progress of the opponent cut off, a block has been committed.

"'Note: A player in motion on offense but not in possession of the ball is deemed primarily responsible for committing blocking.'

"If this statement is helpful in eradicating blocking and in emphasizing that 'playing the ball' is the chief fundamental of basketball, it should be adopted."

It was just on such a play that Barres, Yale end, ran to a touchdown against Georgia last season, and thereby a widespread discussion as to the legality of the play under the fumble rule which says that a fumble of a kicked ball is dead at the point of recovery. Barres grabbed a kicked ball after it bounded out of the arms of a Georgia player. The ball did not touch the ground before Barres caught it.

Delegates to the annual sessions last night approved the point after touchdown, but suggested that the penalties for fouls occurring while the try for point is made now are too drastic. They referred specifically to the present rule under which extra points are awarded, or disallowed, because of offside. They suggested imposition of distance penalties for offside.

The Association asked for a uniform interpretation of the fumble rule, so that on all kicks, as well as fumbles, 'the ball, if recovered before it strikes the ground, may be advanced by the one recovering."

team over the all-East outfit. The Notre Dame aggregation made three times as many touchdowns as did the three other selected teams combined.

Eddie Baker

And it was largely because they were all trained in one system of play and know how to work together, with every man aware of what he was to do, whereas the players on the other teams represented many different systems and had no teamwork on the offensive beyond the little they could develop in their few days of association. It isn't individual stars who win football games. It's how they function as one machine.

WITH ONLY a field goal deciding the East-West game, the game between those elevens was practically an even thing. Eddie Baker's part in the contest showed how a smart player may fare more poorly sometimes than one who doesn't try to think. Figuring that a kick would bound over the East's goal line, the former Pitt captain decided to let it go, instead of catching it and running it back. However, through some peculiarity of the turf at that point, or some odd english on the ball, the pigskin failed to hop over the goal line but bounded straight into the air on the one-yard mark, where opposing players grounded it. Being forced to kick from behind his own goal line, Bruder was unable to punt out of danger. His kick was rushed back to the 20-yard line, and a couple of plays later Mills place-kicked the winning field goal.

Tee to Green

E. Vincent Eldred (yes, there's an E to it), is playing in the Miami open championship, which opens Friday at that place. The noted Highland professional is playing fine golf these days and is expected to make a creditable showing.

Eldred, you know, is professional at the Bradenton (Fla.) Country Club throughout the winter season. And he sends a flock of oranges and grapefruit up North to his friends every Christmas. Thanks, old top.

It would not be surprising if there were a few changes in club management when the next golfing season opens. It is whispered that St. Clair has decided to make a change. Highland, of course, is to have new management, what with Ben and Mrs. Arnold taking a long vacation for their health.

Otto Eberle, manager of the Country Club of Pittsburgh, was surrounded by his many friends of the Hotel, Club and Restaurant Men's Golf Association when he celebrated his fiftieth birthday last week. A recent party for the same purpose also was held for Jack Dillon.

FIRE RAZES GYM

LEIPERVILLE, Pa., Dec. 29.—A mysterious fire last night destroyed the training quarters of George Godfrey, Negro heavyweight, here, with a loss estimated at $7,000. A short circuit may have caused the fire.

NORTH - SOUTH TILT FLOP

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Charity took an extra measure of punishment yesterday along with 1,500 stragglers and two half dozen squads of football players as a team of Southern collegians downed an eleven from the colleges of the North, 7 to 0, on an ice and snow covered gridiron.

The tiny crowd that wandered haphazardly along the side lines failed to pay the expenses of bringing the two elevens together.

George Davidson, University of Georgia, quarterback, was the only man in the park able to keep his feet consistently on a playing surface better suited for a hockey game. In the third quarter the only sustained effort either team was able to make, Davidson passed and ran 80 yards in three successive plays to bring about the only touchdown of the game.

STOCKS RECEDE AGAIN AFTER RALLYING

Market Dragging Close To Year's Low Levels; Enthusiasm Lacking

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—The financial markets drew toward the close of a trying year today without much enthusiasm over wiping the slate for a fresh start.

Stocks appeared to have been temporarily oversold, and recovered a little, for a time during the morning, but by early afternoon the list was again dragging close to the year's lowest levels. Predictions that business recovery in 1931 will be slow, if sure, are now commonly heard in Wall street, and economic advisory services, while indicating investment bargains, say there need be no hurry about making purchases, all of which tended to keep markets depressed.

Tax selling continued to trickle into the stock market, and rails were again conspicuously heavy. Losses in the main were moderate, however, and most of the pivotal industrials maintained a good undertone.

Important corporate news included the granting of an injunction to Cyrus Eaton and his associates, halting the merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube with Bethlehem Steel, and the final drafting of a proposal to unify the New York traction companies. Both developments appeared to be have been largely discounted by the stock market.

Call money showed the customary year-end firmness, renewing at 2½ per cent, and moving up to 3½, the highest since May, as loans were called rather heavily. Last year at this time, however, the rate was 6 per cent, and two years ago it touched 12 per cent.

In the commodity markets, copper was quoted at 10½ cents a pound, up ⅛, for domestic shipment. Bar silver, however, eased close to its recently recorded low for all time.

BANK INTEREST CUT POSSIBLE

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—A reduction in savings bank interest rates as a result of the lower rates allowed by New York Clearing House banks on deposits was today regarded as a possibility in banking circles.

A few months ago a dozen large mutual savings banks in New York cut their payment to 4 per cent from 4½, pointing out that the subnormal condition of the money markets and the then high prices of bonds had curtailed the spread between the income earned on deposits and the amount paid out. Other savings institutions retained the higher rate, contending that their depositors should have ample notice before a change was made.

The Clearing House Association, however, has reduced to 1½ per cent from 2, the rate of interest allowed by its members on deposits from the mutual savings banks, and it was said this action might hasten a cut by institutions still paying 4½, although it was not believed the rate would go below 4.

Normally, savings banks keep rather nominal amounts of cash with commercial banks, but these deposits have increased recently, it was said, because of the growth of public savings.

New York commercial banks, which are clearing house members, are generally paying 3 per cent on thrift accounts. A few non-member banks allow as high as 4.

According to Carl Fogel, manager, there has been no discussion of interest rate reduction by the Pittsburgh Clearing House Association.

MONEY HIGHEST SINCE MAY 1

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Call money advanced to 4 per cent on the New York Stock Exchange today, after renewing at 2½ per cent. It was the first time the call rate had reached 4 per cent since May 1, last, when it renewed at that figure.

The advance resulted from heavy loan calling in preparation for year-end payments. In the outside market lenders asked 3 per cent at the opening and three successive advances of ½ of 1 per cent carried the official rate to 4 per cent.

Heavy withdrawals were made by out-of-town banks building up their reserve positions for the year-end.

LOSSES SHOWN IN PAYROLLS

Employment and payroll disbursements by concerns in Western Pennsylvania reporting to the bureau of business research of the University of Pittsburgh declined in November, according to a report of the bureau. This report is compiled from the figures of more than 250 concerns secured through the co-operation of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce. About 100,000 employes are represented.

November reports from 251 firms showed a 2 per cent decline from October in numbers employed, but a decrease of 12.8 per cent from November last year. The decline in payroll disbursements by 256 firms was more severe. Payroll totals in November dropped 10.4 per cent from the previous month and 22.9 per cent from the same month last year. For the first 11 months of the year, payrolls disbursed by the reporting concerns were 10.8 per cent lower than in the corresponding period last year.

The 156 manufacturing firms reporting November employment figures showed a decline in number employed of 3.0 per cent from October and of 13.2 per cent from November a year ago. Payroll totals for 161 manufacturing concerns exhibited declines of 12.8 per cent from October and 24.8 per cent from November a year ago. For the 11-month period, payroll totals were 11.3 per cent lower than in the same months of 1929.

Building Permits Gain in November

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—There was an increase of 1.7 per cent in the estimated cost of new non-residential buildings for which permits were issued in November, as compared with those in October, according to reports received by the Bureau of Labor Statistics from 288 comparable cities having a population of 25,000 or more. However, there was a decrease of 5.3 per cent in the estimated cost of new residential buildings and a decrease of 6.8 per cent in the estimated cost of all building operations, comparing permits issued during these two periods. The estimated cost of all building projects for which permits were issued during November was $118,949,079.

Petroleum Output Decreases in 1930

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The world's petroleum production for 1930, totaling close to 1,403,500,000 barrels, showed a decline of about 81,000,000 barrels from the previous year, Valentin R. Garfias, manager of the foreign oil department of Henry L. Doherty & Co., said in a survey of the industry issued today. Doherty & Co. is operating manager of Cities Service Company.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 29. — Owing largely to Argentine and Australian reports of unfavorable harvest weather for wheat, grain prices here averaged higher in the early dealings today. The amount of wheat on ocean passage showed 2,424,000 bushels falling off, compared with a week ago. Opening at ½ cent decline to an equal advance, Chicago wheat futures scored a subsequent rise all around. Corn started at ⅜ cent setback to 1 cent gain, and later showed a general upturn.

At noon, wheat ranged from 1⅜ cents decline to ⅛ cent advance, and corn was ½ to ⅞ down.

Bituminous Coal Production Gains

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Total production of soft coal during the week ended December 20 is estimated at 9,315,000 net tons, according to the Bureau of Mines. This is an increase of 531,000 tons, or 6 per cent over the previous week, and compares with 11,360,000 tons produced in the corresponding 1929 week.

Newport to Resume At Rate Above 1930

CINCINNATI, Dec. 29.—Newport Rolling Mill resumed operations today following a 10-day shutdown over the Christmas holiday. Officials stated the present outlook is that operations through January will be at about 70 per cent and will exceed those of January, 1930. A gradual increase in operations is expected.

Factory Sales of Motors Decline

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—A drop in factory sales of automobiles from 150,044 in October and 217,573 in November, 1929, to 129,437 last month was reported today by the Commerce Department.

Factory sales for the past 11 months were placed at 3,201,306 vehicles compared with 5,238,413 for the same period last year.

California Crude Oil Output Drops

Los Angeles, Dec. 29.—California crude oil output in the week ended December 27 averaged 565,000 barrels daily. A decline of 34,600 barrels daily from the previous week, according to California Oil World.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The curb market presented a ragged appearance today. The time remaining for tax selling is brief, and the market felt the weight of offerings in virtually every department. In addition, there was considerable professional pressure.

Disappointing Year Continues to Disappoint.

By B. C. FORBES

A DISAPPOINTING year is closing disappointingly.

The new year should bring a more encouraging chapter in our economic history.

Mr. Forbes

MOST DEVELOPMENTS last week were unfavorable.

Wheat for future delivery dropped to the lowest price of the Twentieth Century. Corn declined drastically. Oats and rye also sagged. Cotton managed only to hold its own—at a price 7½ cents below a year ago.

Railway car loadings, bank clearings, electric power consumption, steel mill operations and such like yard sticks indicate that industry and business have not yet begun to recover appreciably. So do unemployment reports.

IN SHORT, conditions did not inspire a very Merry Christmas.

Has the picture another and brighter side? It has.

WHAT WE are now witnessing is the tail end of the extensive housecleaning necessitated by last year's gross excesses. Inflation having then been pushed to extremes, so deflation is being pushed to extremes. And just as sentiment was limitlessly bullish during the boom, so sentiment is limitlessly bearish during this period of acute deflation.

Events proved that optimism was unreasonably overdone. Events cannot fail to prove that pessimism is now being unreasonably overdone.

Those who profited most last year were those who refused to be carried away by mob psychology. Those who will profit most again are those who refuse to be carried away by the prevailing psychology.

PAINFUL though the current year's experiences have been, they are paving the way towards returning prosperity. Whether wage rates, which theoretically have been maintained at the boom peak, will have to be deflated before the down swing ends, remains to be seen. The same can be said of retail prices, although here there has been more or less marking down. The governmental attempt to peg wheat prices by accumulating a mountain of that commodity admittedly injects another element of uncertainty into calculations.

For these and other reasons, it is questionable how soon and how pronounced general recovery may be. It is hardly to be expected that the chiming in of the new year will have an electric effect upon either sentiment or activity.

NEVERTHELESS, all economic history points to the dawn of revival before many months have passed.

The writer believes that the first signs of recovery will become plain in the action of the stock market. An about-face may easily be witnessed here much sooner than popularly believed possible.

The cutting of the New York Reserve Bank rate to the unprecedentedly low figure of 2 per cent signifies the earnest efforts the powers that be are making to hasten better times.

A WORD about bank failures. Events have clearly revealed that insufficient care has been exercised in New York, in other cities and in smaller communities in the granting of bank charters. Actual, though unexpressed, rivalry exists between the federal and the state authorities in the matter of swelling the number of institutions operating under the respective laws. That is to say, Washington naturally desires to strengthen the national bank system, whereas the 48 states, equally naturally, take pride in building up their own banking power. Any group of individuals anxious to organize a bank usually can find either the federal or the state authorities willing to grant permission.

In other places there have blossomed forth as bankers a variegated assortment of butchers, bakers and buttonhole makers — especially buttonhole makers in the larger cities. They are not real bankers in any sense whatsoever. Some of them are simply adventurers, others are more or less reckless promoters, others are noted only for their political affiliations.

The scandalously large number of bank failures this year is calculated to bring preventative measures. Hereafter it is likely to be less easy for irresponsible, unqualified individuals to obtain a license to open an institution to take in money from an unwary public and use it—misuse it—recklessly. Meanwhile, wherever wrongdoing can be proved by the most aggressive investigation, the penalties inflicted should be the limit permitted by law. There is altogether too much playing fast — and — loose with other people's money.

THE YEAR 1930 will be rung out without regret. The new year can be faced more hopefully.

Many Local Companies Will Report Gains

By GEORGE B. SNYDER.

WITH 1930 DRAWING to a close, corporation heads are starting the task of preparing their yearly reports. They are putting plans for 1931 into operation and are making comparisons of the results of the past year with preceding periods.

Naturally the story of 1930 is depressing when compared with 1929 and 1928. In most industries earnings have declined sharply and production has been at a low rate.

In general, however, Pittsburgh companies have fared well in comparison with the country's average. Several local leading industrial organizations have held their ground this year in spite of the slump in nearly every type of demand. In many other local companies the decline has been in quite moderate proportions.

Show Increased Earnings

AMONG THE LOCAL companies which are expected to report gains in earnings as compared with 1929 are Blaw-Knox and McKeesport Tin Plate. The tin plate company, in particular, will make an encouraging report. Good management and efficient operation, aided by exceptional conditions in this industry, have been responsible. The company enjoyed a large demand for its product during most of the year. Prices of its raw materials were low. Economical operation contributed to the growth in earnings. McKeesport Tin has been showing a consistent increase in profits during recent years.

Blaw-Knox will also show a gain, although it may not be in as great proportion as that of McKeesport Tin. Blaw-Knox has felt the effect of declining sales in some of its products, but has enjoyed an increased volume of business in other lines. The development of new products has also served to take up the slack in dull departments. Extensive public works construction has aided sales of road building machinery and allied products which constitute an important part of Blaw-Knox business.

More Mills Sold

COMPANIES MAKING rolling mill machinery for steel mills also have had an exceptionally good year. Two Pittsburgh firms hold the dominant positions in this industry. They are Mesta Machine and United Engineering and Foundry. Both will show increases in their earnings this year and both reported gains last year.

Mesta recently booked a $4,000,000 order for Inland Steel. It is understood that these companies do not have as much business on their books as at the beginning of 1930, but inquiries for new equipment indicate that the coming year should be another profitable period.

Westinghouse Air Brake

A LARGE NUMBER of other Pittsburgh corporations will report moderate declines in earnings, but will cover their dividend requirements. Among them is Westinghouse Air Brake. This company has suffered from poor demand for equipment for new railroad cars, but has nearly made up for this loss in the sale of signal and train control devices.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Irregular price movements such as usually prevail in the final month of the year developed in the bond market today. Trading was dull and had little affect on the price level. Most active issues fluctuated narrowly.

Jim's Interest in Kitty Increases Noticeably

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

The day before her marriage to Jim Tracy, wealthy Connie Calvert learns through Duke Garson, underworld character, of the existence of a half-sister, Kitty, by her father's secret first marriage. Kitty, a produce of the slums, demands $100,000 for her silence. Connie, glad to have found her sister, offers to take her home. Kitty refuses. Connie is favorably impressed by Duke's magnetism. When Jim objects to her interest in Kitty, Connie breaks her engagement. She realizes Jim is mainly interested in her money and that she does not love him. Connie tells her mother about Kitty. Connie sees Kitty and learns of her laborious daily struggle for existence. Kitty goes home with Connie and is welcomed by Mrs. Calvert. When Jim visits he takes an interest in Kitty.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XX.

A curious, all-gone feeling swept over Connie as she realized the absence of Kitty and Jim Tracy.

The thought came to her, disturbingly, that Jim Tracy might be starting to make a play for Kitty. But that, of course, was unimportant; her natural, feminine vanity repulsed the idea. She had not, she was sure, the faintest flicker of jealousy. Nevertheless, she had an absurd uneasiness about Kitty, out of all proportion to the circumstances.

The sensible thing to do was to suppress the feeling, and give no sign whatever of its existence. Dropping down into a chair, Connie lit a cigaret and waited for their return with slightly miffed patience. When they did return she would be casual . . .

After a disconcertingly long wait, she wondered if she had not better stroll out on the grounds in search of them. It was clear they had no immediate intention of returning.

Gets Impatient

Their prolonged absence was a slight discourtesy for which Connie did not blame Kitty. She grew definitely impatient with Jim. He knew better. Well, let them ramble—eventually they would find the way back. And presently they did appear, strolling from around the house.

"Gee! it's a big place you got here," Kitty declared, coming on the porch. "We walked down through the garden and crossed that little bridge that goes up the path through the woods."

"No, I just came down a minute ago," Connie said, negligently. "So you liked it, Kitty?" "It's immense in the moonlight," Kitty breathed. "Jim has been telling me all about the place. No wonder you don't live in the city, when you got a home and grounds like this."

Kitt was amazed. "Imagine! You certainly have it soft, don't you?"

Jim laughed.

"Well, you've got it soft, too, from now on, Kitty—as I understand it." He sat down between the two girls, but his chair was nearer Kitty's. "Both of you are pretty lucky, I'd say. Pity me—I have to hustle every day like a ditch digger."

"Where do you work?" Kitty asked him.

"Oh, don't believe Jim's tale about hard labor," Connie smiled. "He's in Wall street and he never has to handle anything heavier than a stock certificate. Somebody prints them and he just sells them."

Describes Real Work

"It's the hardest work on earth—mental labor," Jim defended himself. "If anybody doesn't believe it let them get out and try to sell securities against a million others trying to sell the same sort of thing."

Kitty, strangely, seemed to grow impatient with him.

"You talk like a baby," she said. "In fact, I think you are a baby. You don't know what real work is. Me, I've worked 10 hours a day in a laundry ironing clothes. Some nights I've gone home when I could hardly drag one foot after another."

Kitty was in a reminiscent mood, and Connie made no effort to stop her.

"You don't know what tough going is—you two," the girl went on. "Lots of times it was a scramble to get enough to eat, especially if I had laid off a day or so on account of sickness. Sometimes when I'd go out and dance half the night I'd get up in the morning and drag to work feeling like my bones were made out of iron."

"It must have been hell on earth," Jim Tracy declared.

"No, I didn't mind it. I had my friends and we had a pretty good time. We never felt sorry for ourselves—it was all a kind of joke. All I'm trying to say is that people like you and Connie don't know what real work is. But I don't blame you for taking it easy and enjoying yourselves. It's the best way to live if you can get away with it."

Jim spoke directly to Connie, but his words, somehow, seemed intended for Kitty: "She's a great girl, Connie!"

Friendly Pity

"Nix—I'm just a roughneck," Kitty said, relapsing for a moment into throaty argot. "I wouldn't talk like that, Connie, in front of your friends, and shock them—but with Jim it's sort of like among the family, I guess. Besides, you told him all about my history anyway."

Jim nodded. "I'll always feel that I belong around here," he said, sentimentally.

There was that something in his tone that quickened the hearts of both girls. Connie saw him, now, not through the eyes of romance, but as an appealing and not too strong character. He was not the type to stand alone; always, it would be needful for him to cling to some person, to something. In marriage she would have been his security. Until the tendrils of his nature found another object of attachment, she supposed she still had an obligation to him. Strange, though, that she had not before understood so clearly his personality. Perhaps she had realized it subconsciously, which might have accounted for her tenderness toward him. What she thought was love might have been no more than primitive instinct. But tenderness now, however, had altered in a perceptible degree; it approached friendly pity . . . protectiveness.

"Thank you, Connie, dear."

He reached out with his left hand and clasped one of her hands, held it; with his right he stretched toward Kitty. The girl put her toil hardended hand in his palm.

"How about you, Kitty?"

"That's O. K. with me, Jim."

The three of them sat there for a moment linked. When Jim Tracy released their hands, Connie observed that he held Kitty's a moment or two longer than hers.

DAILY TRUE STORY — 'Miss Swinton'

Probably Milton Manning named his company the Mastodon Pictures because it was a very small company, of which he owned all except the few shares to his secretary, his sister; and his treasurer, his brother, covering the corporation laws.

This was in the days when all the sounds there were in pictures was the organ and the reading audibly of titles.

Oswald had starred for some of the top-notch companies, but Oswald had greater ambitions. He wanted to be a director, and also an author.

He went to the Mastodon Pictures because Manning had promised him that he might direct his next picture and also might write it.

Oswald was mighty happy over this. He already visualized the big 12-sheet posters, emblazoning the title, "Hearts Aflame," and then under it:

Featuring Oswald Farley
Story by Oswald Farley.
Directed by
Oswald Farley.

That was going to make the Malcho and the Paragon companies sore that they hadn't given him this chance!

"Yeah? Well, let her rest."

"But we can get her for "Hearts Aflame"—she's just the type to support me, and she's got a name. Great luck. We can get her for twelve hundred a week cash—if we advertise that we're paying her five."

"I got someone for you, Farley."

"You have? Who—don't tell me you got Nolla Deston?"

"I won't tell you that—I should pay what she asks? I got a real find—"

"A friend? Don't tell me—"

An Unknown Star

"Her name is Miss Swinton, and she is beautiful."

"But who is she? What has she done?"

"Nothing in your contract that allows you to tell me what to eat or what woman to put in the picture. You've got enough. Now listen. I was just going to send for you. Miss Swinton takes the place of Polly in the new picture, and she starts tomorrow."

Oswald knew how far he could go with Manning and how far he couldn't go, as he expressed it, himself. He did some quick thinking. If he could shoot some little scene and then show Manning how rotten they were, he would get his way about it.

"All right — perhaps you're right. I'm going to do the exteriors, the gate scene, tomorrow at 10. Have your Miss Swinton brought out to the double-arch bridge on the Vada pike—you know the spot—and I'll start."

"Listen, Hadley, don't break your neck getting her to look her best, understand?" And then he told Hadley all about it.

Artist Arrives

"Miss Swinton?" he asked, coldly.

The lady smiled and nodded.

"I can see that....didn't expect the old man could make friends with her type—but cheer up, her acting will be rotten enough to queer everything."

"Now, in this love scene, Miss Swinton, I am the outlaw, being trailed. I have lost my horse below and come up by the falls and across here, anxious to hide. Just as I get here I find you cornered by a rattler—this is only a stuffed one for a quick shot, we'll shoot live ones for other shots. I jump in and get the snake by the neck and hurl him away and save you—and then you recognize me and promise to help hide me—is that clear?"

"So far."

"For the first time I fall for a lady. I love you at sight and you take a great interest in me. You are very rich and your society men friends are all soft Willie boys. You are interested in my type, that's where our acquaintanceship begins."

"I'll try."

They did the thing twice and with the second take Oswald felt that it would be good.

A woman got out, followed by Milton Manning.

Manning looked around.

"Hey," he said, "how dare you go and get another star just because Miss Swinton was a little late? She's out!"

"Miss Swinton? This is Miss Swinton," Oswald insisted.

"Is this the Miss Swinton you expected would support me in my picture, Mr. Manning?" he asked.

"Of course."

Oswald sized the woman up. She had the appearance of having a hangover and once had been pretty, but that was years ago.

Oswald called Mr. Manning to one side.

"Listen, surely you don't mean to try and use this lady?" he said.

"She's a personal friend; she is very beautiful, and she plays the part; wait until she is made up. And don't ever go over my head again. Tell this woman you hired that she's through—"

"I didn't hire her, she came. She said she was Miss Swinton—so I supposed I should have known that I'd have no luck like that."

"It's like this, Manning. Your friend is impossible. She would spoil the picture. My Miss Swinton is the most beautiful girl I've seen here on the coast, and either I use her in the picture or I'm through right now!"

"Then you're through. I won't have my—who's boss?" Manning started to get sore and use strong language.

"Not in front of this lady," Oswald said, "or I'll twist your nose!"

Completes Picture

"Are you really Miss Swinton?"

"My name is Winton, W-i-n-t-o-n, Mr. Farley. Let them go along. I have an idea. Come up home to luncheon with me, please."

"Miss Swinton—Miss Winton—funny mistake for me to make—"

But Oswald drove up the winding path and a mile further on to a handsome estate where Oswald met Mr. Winton, her father. She told the whole story, with much laughter

"Now, Dad, I want to make that picture. It's a lovely story and Mr. Farley is so nice!"

Oswald went to it. It was a successful picture. But Oswald never made any more pictures. As the husband of Molly Winton he was too busy traveling around the world and going here and there and having a very nice time of it.

Record-Breaking Drought

We Can Be Grateful That the Water Shortage Has Not Had a Bad Effect on Health.

W. S. Brotzman, local weather forecaster, reports that 1930 has been the driest year experienced by Pittsburgh since 1836, when official measurement of the rainfall was started.

The precipitation has been about 23 inches, or 13 less than normal.

Pittsburgh has felt the effect of the drought in shortage of water for lawn sprinkling last summer and in the increased acidity of the rivers, which made the water worse than ever for use in engine boilers.

Pennsylvania farmers have felt the effect in a ruined corn crop and poor pasture, which made it necessary for some to get rid of their livestock.

But the misfortune most to be dreaded as a result of prolonged drought has mercifully been spared us. There has been no outbreak of disease.

Notwithstanding that thousands of Pennsylvanians, deprived of their usual source of supply, have turned to old wells and springs for water, typhoid fever and other diseases associated with bad water have shown no increase. Credit is due the State Health Department for investigating these emergency supplies and seeing that none but safe water was used.

The drought is still with us, and speculation continues as to its cause. A woman offers this opinion:

"Just a few remarks about the drought question. Some say it's the radio; others say it's the airplanes, but it's neither one. The wrath of God is upon us, and no wonder when you visit the bathing places and camps, and see the shameful costumes and conduct of some of the swimmers. Is it any wonder we are suffering from drought and unemployment!"

Guesses as to the cause are merely guesses, and so are predictions as to the amount of rainfall we will have in 1931.

Radio and Religion

Broadcasting of Church Services Tends to Break Down Suspicion and Bigotry.

Ten years of broadcasting of religious services will be commemorated by a public mass meeting in Syria Mosque next Sunday afternoon.

It is appropriate that Pittsburgh should celebrate the decennial, because it was here that the radio was first used for the propagation of religion. The first church service broadcast was that of Calvary Episcopal Church.

There was considerable discussion in the early days as to the effect broadcasting would have on church attendance. It was conceded that the radio service was a blessing to invalids and other shut-ins; but there were those who contended that persons well able to go to church might refrain from doing so because it was so much more comfortable to sit at home in a rocking chair in negligee and listen to the service that way.

Broadcasting has had one other effect, however, on which there can be no dispute. It is tending to break down bigotry and suspicion. People can and do listen to the services of all denominations. They find that there is good in all of them. They find that they were suspicious of other sects because they knew next to nothing about the other sects' teachings.

Heed Jefferson's Advice

Now Is the Time for States to Do Their Part In Outlining Emergency Relief Plans.

The legislatures of 43 states will convene soon after the new year.

If the governors of those states do their duty, they will submit with their messages such programs for state relief as will effectively supplement the far-reaching measures for emergency relief just adopted by the federal government.

Not until the states have shown what they propose to do to help themselves should the federal government be pressed for further relief which can only be financed by increased federal taxes.

Many Americans, citizens as well as public servants, need to be reminded from time to time of the form of government which the Constitution established:

It is a federal republic in which the undivided sovereignty of the people operates both through the federal government and the governments of the several states.

This division of powers and responsibilities was deemed by the framers of the Constitution a better guarantee of liberty and justice than the centralization of all powers and all responsibilities in the federal city would provide.

"It is not by the consolidation or concentration of powers, but by their distribution, that good government is effected. Were not this great country already divided into states, that division must be made, that each might do for itself what concerns itself directly and what it can so much better do than a distant authority * * * Were we directed from Washington when to sow and when to reap, we should soon want bread."

Now is the time for the governors and legislatures of the several states—especially the 43 states whose legislatures meet next month—to quicken with works their faith in the American form of government by heeding the warning and following the advice of Jefferson.

But, how about the women? What's to become of all the second-hand wives with which the market would be glutted? Good, old ex-wives, just a little battered and out of style, like year-before-last's flivver. Just a little shabbier and seedier than this-year's-model flapper—but as depreciated in value as a 10-year-old used car.

* * *

Fancy how pleasant life would be if a man could wake up any morning and say, "Well, m' dear, I see you've got a new crows-foot under the left eye. Take it away from here! I can't bear it. You've ceased to be a novelty or an ornament—and my soul craves something newer and younger and snappier."

* * *

* * *

Of course, the woman would have the same privilege. But, nine women out of ten would never think of taking advantage of it; because every normal woman is at heart a monogamist—a one-man woman. And she never thinks of divorce so long as a man is endurable.

Moreover, eight or ten years added to a young man's age does not depreciate his charms in feminine eyes. At thirty-five, he is more fascinating and desirable than he is in his raw and callow youth.

* * *

But a second-hand wife creeping along toward forty would not relish being "junked" like an old flivver, for a cute little bantam car, fresh from the rosebud garden of girls.

* * *

There are only two things the matter with Companionate Marriage. It isn't marriage—and it isn't companionship. It is founded on modern fallacy that marriage is merely for the sake of experiment.

* * *

But marriage is NOT an experiment, at all. The only object of marriage, today, yesterday, and forever, is to build a life, a home, and a lifelong companionship together.

* * *

It does not always work out that way, to be sure. But, unless that is the sole basis on which it begins, it hasn't a ghost of a chance to work out happily or successfully.

EINSTEIN, COLOSSUS OF TODAY

By Archibald Henderson

Every century or so, at irregular intervals throughout the course of human history, the universe is recreated or repaired by some master mind. This master mind may arise and function in any department of human activity: Religion, science, philosophy, literature or the decorative arts. Buddha, Confucius or Christ; Spinoza, Descartes or Kant; Plato or Hegel; Dante, Shakespeare, Balzac or Goethe; Archimedes, Kepler or Newton.

These marvelous mentalities spread before us a world of their own creation and fantasy, either evolved by their imagination or built from the findings of philosophical or scientific discovery. It is through this unhalting process of emergent evolution that the universe develops and unfolds, taking on new meanings and displaying new colors.

One of these colossi of the ages has come to visit America, in pursuit of scientific discovery and research, at some of our great laboratories and observatories. This is the German wizard, Albert Einstein, whose theories have so mystified, astounded and intrigued the world.

Fleeing publicity, avoiding the glare of the spotlight, Einstein seeks in quietude to unveil some of the deeper secrets of the universe, as yet hidden from mortal eyes. He is confessedly engaged upon the complex and baffling task of attempting to effect one of the supreme scientific syntheses of history.

Sir Isaac Newton had perhaps the mightiest organizing mind of history. He organized and correlated the primary laws of physics into one inter-related group of coherent ideas. Had Einstein lived then, it is probable that he could have done no more than Newton did.

Since Newton's time, however, science has made innumerable new discoveries, having to do with space, time, molecular and astral physics, and the general structure of the universe.

Newton knew nothing of the fourth dimension, of higher space, of the laws of electro-magnetism as we understand them today, or radio-activity, of quantum mechanics.

For the past quarter of a century Einstein has devoted all his energies to unifying, organizing and correlating the newly discovered laws and data of physics, in its broadest sense. His task is comparable to that which confronted Newton three centuries ago.

One of the most extraordinary of contemporary phenomena is the vision of contemporary scientists regarding the force back of the universe. To many of them, the operations of the universe, at once esthetic and orderly, appear to be the workings of a Cosmic Mind—endowed with the mentality of the mathematician, the soul of the artist.

Shapley sees about him a universe magnified in proportions far beyond those previsaged by a Herschel or a Tycho Brahe.

The Abbe le Maitre stimulates our imaginations with the vision of a gradually expanding universe, like some vast bubble blown by a Mighty Breath at the heart of things. Eddington sees a universe completing itself through the immitigable law of randomness, entropy tracking the inerrant arrow of ruthless time.

America, which has given the world a Franklin, a Henry, a Rumford, a Newcombe, a Gibbs, an Edison, a Michelson, and a Millikan, welcomes Prof. Einstein to its shores, and places all its mighty facilities of intellect, laboratory and observatory at his disposal, in his eternal quest for truth.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

We have forty-five million children in the United States. More than ten million are handicapped.

Six million are improperly nourished.

Three hundred and eighty-two thousand are tubercular—

And so it goes—the marvel is that it doesn't go further!

FOR WE AMERICANS WHO SO LOUDLY BOAST THAT CHILDHOOD IS OUR MOST PRECIOUS ASSET, ACTUALLY TREAT IT AS THE MOST PALTRY.

Our other products and investments are protected by state and federal laws. We must have permits and submit to examination at regular intervals if we keep dairy cattle. The cattle man who abuses his cows is reported to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The dairy man who sells impure milk is promptly hauled before the Board of Health.

YET MILLIONS OF CHILDREN CAN BE ABUSED IN DIVERS WAYS—

Would you permit bungling ignorant fools to make an aeroplane? Would you consider it safe to ride in an aeroplane by such persons? Of course you wouldn't.

YET ANY SENTIMENTAL IMBECILE CAN HAVE A BABY—AND MOST OF THEM DO.

AND ONE DEFECTIVE CHILD IS A GRAVER MENACE TO SOCIETY THAN A THOUSAND DEFECTIVE AEROPLANES.

Before you could operate your automobile you had to have a license. Before you could get that license you had to be able to answer certain questions correctly. You had to study automobiles. You had to know how they were made, how they functioned.

HOW MUCH KNOWLEDGE OF CHILDREN IS REQUIRED BEFORE A MAN AND A WOMAN ARE ALLOWED TO HAVE A BABY?

THE AVERAGE AMERICAN COUPLE, EVEN THOUGH THEY HAVE HIGH SCHOOL EDUCATIONS, DO NOT KNOW THE FACTS ABOUT THEIR OWN BODIES — MUCH LESS THE FACTS ABOUT THEIR CHILDREN'S PRENATAL LIFE AND BIRTH AND INFANCY.

We do not think it is "nice" to teach such facts. We feel that such knowledge will, somehow, arrive automatically, with the birth of the child. We leave it to "mother instinct"—and woe to the unlucky speaker who dares doubt that Holy Attribute. Piffle! A mother has no more instinctive knowledge about raising children properly than a mechanic has about making cars properly. If you doubt this, look at the results of much of our mothering.

Six million children are improperly nourished. This isn't because the parents lack food for them, but because their parents do not know what food they need.

We permit stupid, careless girls who couldn't earn $12 a week as clerks, to assume, without question, the role of mother—AND THEN WE PAY FOR THE CONSEQUENCES OF THEIR FOLLY IN OUR JAILS, OUR HOSPITALS, OUR REFORM SCHOOLS AND INSANE ASYLUMS.

So criminally careless are we, that it is not possible in most of our states, to obtain a divorce on the score of insanity or venereal disease. FIFTY THOUSAND PARTIALLY BLIND CHILDREN, 14,000 WHOLLY BLIND, 450,000 MENTALLY RETARDED, PAY FOR THAT CARELESSNESS!

Yet we call ourselves civilized!

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Debutante Days

Dinner and dance, luncheon and tea,
Never a moment a girl can call free;
Flirting and chattering, head in a whirl,
Clever bookkeeping, maneuvering dates;
Parties and balls, movies and plays,
Snatching an instant, just now and again
Out of the hours crammed with music and men,
Stealing away where the soft night winds croon,
Sensing the message of stars and of moon;
Debutante days are all flowers and rhyme,
Yet the girl muses, apart, for a time
Like any rustic, shy lass in a field
Tearing up daisies, that love be revealed;
Questioning life, all its puzzles and schemes,
Making Earth fairer with debutante dreams!

Text For Today It is better to dwell in a corner of the housetop than with a brawling woman in a wide house.—Proverbs, xxi:9.

Wonderful

And Most Skilful. BUT—

DIVING THROUGH A TIRE. TO TACKLE.

The young man jumping through the automobile tire is practicing for the West Point football team. Running at high speed, he jumps, head first, through the tire, held a few feet above the ground, and tackles the dummy with energy enough to bring down any man and, perhaps, break a few of his bones.

This most ingenious practice teaches the tackler to make his way through a narrow opening, and dive head first at his opponent with deadly accuracy.

Any one of a hundred thousand young Americans would gladly practice this and other devices of football coaches, day in and day out, obeying rules, abstaining from late hours, and everything else apt to diminish energy.

The question is, how can the great universities interest boys in other, more important things, as much as they are interested in football and the glory of football victory?

The chances are, ten to one, that in all of his future career, the young man in the picture will not work as hard at anything as he works at this football practice.

If, in real life, in work that is to decide his success or failure, he were asked, figuratively, to jump through an automobile tire and throw himself, head first, at a dummy he would say: "Don't be unreasonable."

In his youth, a boy will work from sun up to sun down, exhausting himself, undergoing any privation, risking broken bones, and life itself, for the sake of his school or college. He works not for himself, but for the OTHER boys, for the school and its reputation.

What a pity this unselfish work could not be extended all through life? What a wonderful thing it would be for the United States if the ablest men in it were working for their country and all of its people, as college boys work for the college and all of its boys.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Early to my watch repairer who invariably charges $2.50 and met up with Brock Pemberton, an erstwhile co-slave on the old Evening Mail and now a nabob of the theater. So back home to twitter this dailyode.

In the afternoon fell to reading letters of James Whitcomb Riley and interested especially in those to Meredith Nicholson. And a beautiful thing was his faith. Shortly before passing William Lyon Phelps inquired if Riley feared death. He replied: "Why, you and I will go right on living!"

To dinner with Henry and Anne Sell and affrighted when a shot from a cooked pheasant rolled under my tongue, mistaking it for a tooth filling. Then with my wife to see "Grand Hotel," diverting drama but not worth the $15.50 paid for two tickets. Late to bed.

* * *

Many innocent side street hotels in New York are havens of organized vice. They make attractive rates to elderly and respectable couples, for they give an aura of benign and valetudinarian dignity they could not otherwise attain. Most of them are the proverbial stone's toss from Broadway.

Here gather the stool pigeons and underworld fixers. The drug and liquor caches are often there, from which runners and peddlers are sent forth. Vice barons buy a majority interest in such inns and control them in the same manner in which they control the night clubs.

Gang murders, robberies and blackmailing shake-downs are hatched in this atmosphere of pseudo-respectability. Unhappily, many visitors to the city go innocently to this type of hotel. In two instances recently utter strangers have been held as material witnesses.

* * *

A gigantic hotel north of Times Square is the reputed keystore of the biggest liquor ring in the world. Every clerk and bellboy is said to be an illicit salesman. For two years it has been the topic of vaudeville and musical revue jokes, but continues wide open.

* * *

Two of New York's most sensational and recent crimes have taken place in hotel rooms—the pistoling of the notorious Arnold Rothstein and the equally notorious Legs Diamond. In each instance when the police arrived, trails grew immediately cold. And, see here Mr. Commissioner, what's being done about the Rothstein and Diamond mysteries?

* * *

In such hotels one hears the jargon of the underworld—such words as "grand," "cutins," "a deck" and "a bust in the arm." Here are the hennaed and peroxided ladies who constellate in the nocturnal luster of night clubs—the glorified molls of the gunmen.

* * *

* * *

Lait is also authority for the origin of that Broadway slang: "It's the real McCoy!" A token of superiority. Kid McCoy was once standing in front of his cafe on Broadway and Thirty-ninth street. A drunk lurched up, blubbering: "You ain't the real McCoy. You are a four flushing faker." McCoy let one go flush to the jaw. Coming to 10 minutes later the drunk murmured: "It's the real McCoy!"

* * *

The most dramatic, yet most inelegant, simile I ever heard was in the lobby of a shady Broadway hotel. A rat-faced type in answer to some question, just as I passed along, snarled: "Crooked? Why he's as crooked as a churn full of coon guts!"

A letter from a lady asking if Irvin Cobb had It was forward to him. It came back today with this notation: "If It is dandruff, I have."

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Did it ever occur to you that every word of discourtesy that you say to your wife, if she is well bred, is a leaden nail that works to your disadvantage.

Discourtesy from either husband or wife makes a rift in thought. One or the other may not reply in kind, but resentment steps in.

Is it possible to work really and lovingly for another's interest when you are nursing thoughts that are sore and cutting?
